SINKIANG REVOLT

"WHITE GUARDS"
BLAMED

SINO-SOVIET ISSUE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, April
27, 1933 9 a.m.)

Moscow, April 27.
It is authoritatively reported in Chinese circles that the Sinkiang situation is not likely to assume international proportions as Sino-Soviet relations there are excellent in view of the mutual trade benefits.

It is believed that the revolt was stirred up by a number of governors of the Russian White Guards, whose intentions are unknown.

It is possibly a sequel to the two-year old tension between two sections of the population.

The revolt is not likely to lead to hostilities as both sides are badly armed and scattered throughout the country, where there are few roads and no railways.—Reuter.

GOVERNOR'S FLIGHT.

Nanking, April 27.
The Sinkiang Governor, King Shu-jen fled safely from Tihua before the city was occupied by the Mohammedan insurgents, according to official reports.
It is stated that peace and order prevail in Tihua.—Reuter.

BRITONS ARRESTED IN GERMANY

Government Making Enquiries

London, Apr. 27.
Asked in the House of Commons what steps are being taken in connection with the arrest in Germany of Mr. W. Mann and an Indian named Tagori, the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, said that Mann was arrested during a police raid on a club in Berlin.
The British Ambassador had addressed an official note to the German Foreign Minister asking that a full investigation be made into the circumstances.
Regarding Tagori, it was reported that he was arrested near the Austro-Bavarian frontier, and it was not certain that he was a British subject. Inquiries had been made from the Bavarian authorities and a report was on its way.—British Wireless.

London, April 27.
The Newmarket Two-Year-Old Stakes was run to-day resulting in Necker, a strong favourite at 11 to 10, winning from Spring-shoot at 8 to 1 and Sonnet Springs at 100 to 1, who ran third.
Fifteen started, Necker winning by two lengths, with five lengths separating second and third.—Reuter.

LUAN HO WITHDRAWAL SIGNIFICANCE

SPECULATION AROUSSED

Nanking, Apr. 28.
A spokesman of the Foreign Office has categorically denied the report in the Daily Express of an alleged secret peace treaty between China and Japan, purporting to give its terms.

He said that the report was so fantastic that it was beyond belief that anyone could give it serious consideration. He added that the Chinese Government is determined to continue its resistance against further invasion.

Meanwhile a net significance has been given to the withdrawal of the Japanese forces from the Lan River region to the Great Wall.

JAPANESE AND C.E.R.

One of the explanations suggested by the Nanking Government was that the Japanese were apprehensive of serious developments in North Manchuria consequent upon the dispute between the Soviet and Manchukuo over the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Now comes a message from Harbin announcing that Japanese troops are being withdrawn from Jehol and are arriving in North Manchuria. Three regiments from Jehol are due in Harbin to-day.

PLANES ALSO.

Japanese aeroplanes are also proceeding north.
Seven fighting planes arrived at Harbin yesterday and their final destination is not known.—Reuter.

sages Ordinance, 1891. Received, April

Shanghai, April 28.
The fourth, as well as the largest, consignment of art treasures from the Imperial Palace at Peking has arrived.
It is comprised altogether of 6,273 cases, and the bulk of the consignment is composed of bronze ware, porcelain, literature and instruments.—Reuter.

THE SILVER OUTLOOK

AMERICAN SPECULATORS FORCING UP PRICE

American speculators are in full control of the silver market and the outlook for the future can only be described as obscure.
In London, the price of silver jumped to 20.9/16ths spot, and 20 1/2 forward due to American buying with sellers scarce. After the official fixing, the tendency continued upward, and the Americans were reported to be offering from 20 1/2 to 21 figures which were regarded in well-informed circles as a trifle indiscreet.

The charred ruins of the air-liner, City of Liverpool, which crashed in flames near Dismude, with a loss of fifteen lives. Photo shows a search for the bodies of the victims proceeding. Wild rumours that the machine was deliberately set on fire have been dispelled by the Salford inquest which ended yesterday with an open verdict.

STAHLHELM DISAPPEARS

DR. SELDTE JOINS NAZI ORGANISATION

ALLEGIANCE TO HITLER

Berlin, Apr. 27.
Predictions that the Steel Helmet organisation would soon cease to exist as a separate entity in German politics have quickly been borne out.

The head of the Stahlhelm, Dr. Franz Seldte, who is Minister of Labour in the Hitler Cabinet, has joined the Nazis taking the bulk of the Steel Helmets with him.

The announcement was made by Dr. Seldte in a wireless broadcast, in the course of which he said he was submitting himself and the Stahlhelm to Hitler's leadership.

Those who refused to follow him could regard themselves as released from the membership oath.

THOROUGH "PURGING"

The step, which has long been expected, was taken after a thorough "purging" of the Stahlhelm of the opposition elements, including Lieut. Colonel Dueterberg, who was dismissed yesterday, and Major Wagner, the Federal Chancellor of the organisation.
No official announcement has been made regarding the withdrawal of Herr Hugenberg and Baron von Neurath from the Hitler Cabinet.—Reuter.

AIR LINER DISASTER

VOSS DEATH MYSTERY INQUIRY

OPEN VERDICT

(Special to "Telegraph")

(Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, April
28, 1933 9 a.m.)

London, April 27.
An open verdict was returned at the inquest at Salford on the body of Mr. Albert Voss, a Manchester dentist, one of the fifteen victims of the City of Liverpool disaster.

The Imperial Airways liner crashed in flames in Belgium on March 28 but Mr. Voss fell from the machine two miles before it crashed.

The inquest was held to inquire into two theories

- (1) that Mr. Voss took poison when he was in the machine.
- (2) that he became mentally strained during the journey and set fire to the machine.

During the hearing it was suggested that there was ground for suspicion in the fact that the victim, although an undischarged bankrupt, made frequent expensive air journeys between England and the Continent, and it was alleged that he was a large buyer and taker of drugs.
His relatives denied all knowledge of such practice.

LACK OF EVIDENCE.

The jury expressed the opinion that the death of Mr. Voss was caused by injuries due to his falling from the air-liner, there being no conclusive evidence to show why or how he left the machine.
Mr. Goodfellow, representing the Imperial Airways, emphasized that the Company had never entered the suggestion that there was a deliberate attempt to cause the lamentable disaster.

RELATIVES PERSECUTED.

The Coroner (Mr. A. Howard Flint) denounced the "mean, cowardly and unjustified" persecution of the relatives of the dead man by "some misguided people." He expressed the hope that it would now cease.—Reuter.

DOLLAR DICTATOR

ROOSEVELT INFLATION PLAN

FREE HAND BY SENATE

CRITICS' FEAR

UNCERTAINTY OF EXTENT

Washington, Apr. 27.
President Roosevelt is now practically assured of the support of the Senate in his inflation schemes.

The attitude of the Senate to-day suggested that he will very shortly be invested with power to inflate the currency to a vast and unpredictable extent.

This unlimited power is causing concern in some powerful quarters. Critics predict that the uncertainty of the extent of the inflation will undermine public confidence in the currency and lead to a panic boom and then collapse.

OFFICIAL ATTITUDE.

Official circles, however, argue that President Roosevelt may be trusted to use his enormous powers wisely.

The trend of the Senate discussion was revealed when the clause empowering the President to reduce the gold content of the dollar up to fifty per cent. was adopted, this effectively quashing the attempt of the Conservatives of both parties, led by Senator Glass, to resist the grant of unprecedented powers.

MARKET CAUTIOUS.

The New York Stock Market is becoming cautious and speculators are leaving everything alone until the inflation programme becomes more clearly defined. Only 1,800,000 shares were done during the day and prices showed a small decline all round.—Reuter.

DEBT MORATORIUM QUESTION

"Officially" Expecting June Payments

Washington, Apr. 27.
Although it is confirmed that President Roosevelt may be expected to propose to Congress a further moratorium on war debts until after the World Economic Conference, a declaration made at the White House shows that "officially" the President expects the June payments to be made.

The official spokesman emphasized that no agreement for the postponement of the payments has been made, but he indicated that some adjustments might be worked out for further conversations with the debtor countries.

It is significant, in this connection, that the Speaker of the House, Mr. Rainey, declared to-day that although personally opposed to a moratorium, he would support any request for postponement made by the President.—Reuter.

HERRIOT PLEASED.

Washington, Apr. 27.
M. Herriot, the French delegate to Washington, is very pleased with the results of his conversations with President Roosevelt. At their conclusion to-day, he declared that they had accomplished "enormous progress" in preparation for the World Economic Conference.—Reuter.

BRITAIN'S AIR CHIEF DEAD

SIR GEOFFREY SALMOND PASSES AWAY

HELD POST ONLY A FEW DAYS

London, April 27.
Sir Geoffrey Salmond, Chief of the Air Staff, who has been seriously ill since the beginning of April, passed away to-day.

He had assumed his new post, the highest ranking in the Royal Air Force, only a few days when he was taken ill and his brother, Sir John Salmond, who had retired, suddenly was recalled to the Air Ministry.

The Air Council have announced that the funeral will take place on Monday.

Sir Geoffrey Salmond was born in August 1878, and was educated at Wellington College and the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich. His father was Major-General Sir W. Salmond.

BOXER REBELLION.

Joining the Royal Artillery in 1898, he served with that arm in the South African war, gaining seven clasps to his medal. He also participated in the suppression of the Boxer rebellion in China.

In 1911, he took a course at the Staff College and passed. At the outbreak of the world-war he was a captain on the General Staff, but within a year had reached the rank of Lieut. Colonel. He then joined the R.A.F. and, promoted Brigadier-General, was given the command of that force in the Middle East which he held with great distinction until 1921. In 1917 he received the D.S.O., in 1918 the C.B., and in 1919 a knighthood (K.C.M.G.) and promotion to Air Vice-Marshal.

SYSTEMATIC RAIDS.

It was his systematic and persistent raids which served more than anything else to break up the Turkish armies. In a lull in the operations in December, 1918, he accompanied with Capt. Ross Smith the first flight to India. Returning to England, Sir Geoffrey Salmond became, in 1922, the Director-General of Supply and Research at the Air Ministry and a member of the Air Council.

In 1926 he was created K.C.B. and a year later was given command of the R.A.F. in India, being promoted Air Marshal in 1929.

CHIEF OF AIR STAFF.

At home again in 1931, he was Commander-in-Chief of the Air Defence of Britain until he was appointed in July, 1932, Chief of the Air Staff, succeeding his younger brother, Sir John Salmond, who had held the post for years and retired to give his brother an opportunity to attain the higher post. The appointment was effective from the beginning of the present month.—Reuter.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Tucked Away in Fashion.

Tucked shoes are something new and these tucked black pumps are chic with a black dressmaker suit with unusual sleeves and a skirt with kick pleats front and back. There are rows and rows of fine horizontal pin tucks covering the entire surface of the shoes, which are the new high cut pumps, with medium heel, that not only look smart but let a lady walk with ease.

The blouse with the suit is of fine white crepe, also pin-tucked. And for real variety, there is a white jabot that buttons Ascot fashion with two pearl buttons, made of white kid.

EYEBROW LINE.

Must Correspond With Shape of Eyes.

In the matter of eyebrows, a good rule to follow is to see that they correspond with the shape of the eye at all times.

They should follow the line of the upper lids, should equal in distance from lid to brow the vertical measurements of the open eye.

The eye brow line is important. The brow that is too thin and too highly arched has a tendency to make the eye appear smaller.

Many brows are too heavy, some are too short, others too straight, and, alas, countless eyebrows go unremedied, ungroomed.

If your eyes are small, shorten the width of the arch of your eyebrows in the circular manner worn by Constance Bennett, whose eyebrows are an example of the type that gets most out of rounded, regular features. Widened arches will make large eyes appear smaller.

Expression and character in a face are sacrificed if brows are too short at the ends.

A well-sharpened eyebrow pencil will remedy this by darkening the ends of the brows just a little, adding a faint line to give additional length—a line which, by the way, should have an upward trend.

Brows that are too straight will make lustrous melancholy to any face. Too highly arched brows will give a grotesquely surprised look. Brows that are too straight will make lustrous eyes beady. Heavy, thick brows will ruin a lovely face, the too thin line will do the same to a strong one.

And another good rule to follow: The distance between every woman's brows should tally with the width of her eye.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

By Alicia Hart.

The average person looks at eyes first of all, when meeting a new person.

But artists tell us that they look at mouths. Eyes can assume an expression of interest, alertness, happiness. But mouths are themselves, the sum total of the inner attitude of a man or woman.

That is why your eyes may be tired and yet you may have an indefinite appealing quality of charm just because your mouth has a gentleness, a sweetness, a seriousness of expression that makes folks realize a certain beauty that attracts.

Too many women confuse charm with beautiful features. Too many girls have the ideal of being beautiful and, failing to create a furor, become discontented or envious of someone who has succeeded.

The past few years have made smartness and chic almost synonymous with beauty. Those are possibilities for many women who are downright homely.

However, it seems to me too few women cultivate charm. Charm is a quality of character that grows as the years creep on, deepens with experience, is richer through maturity.

No utterly self-centered, selfish person can have real, universal charm. It presupposes an interest in others, a consideration of them, a warmth and a generosity that carries a person outside herself.

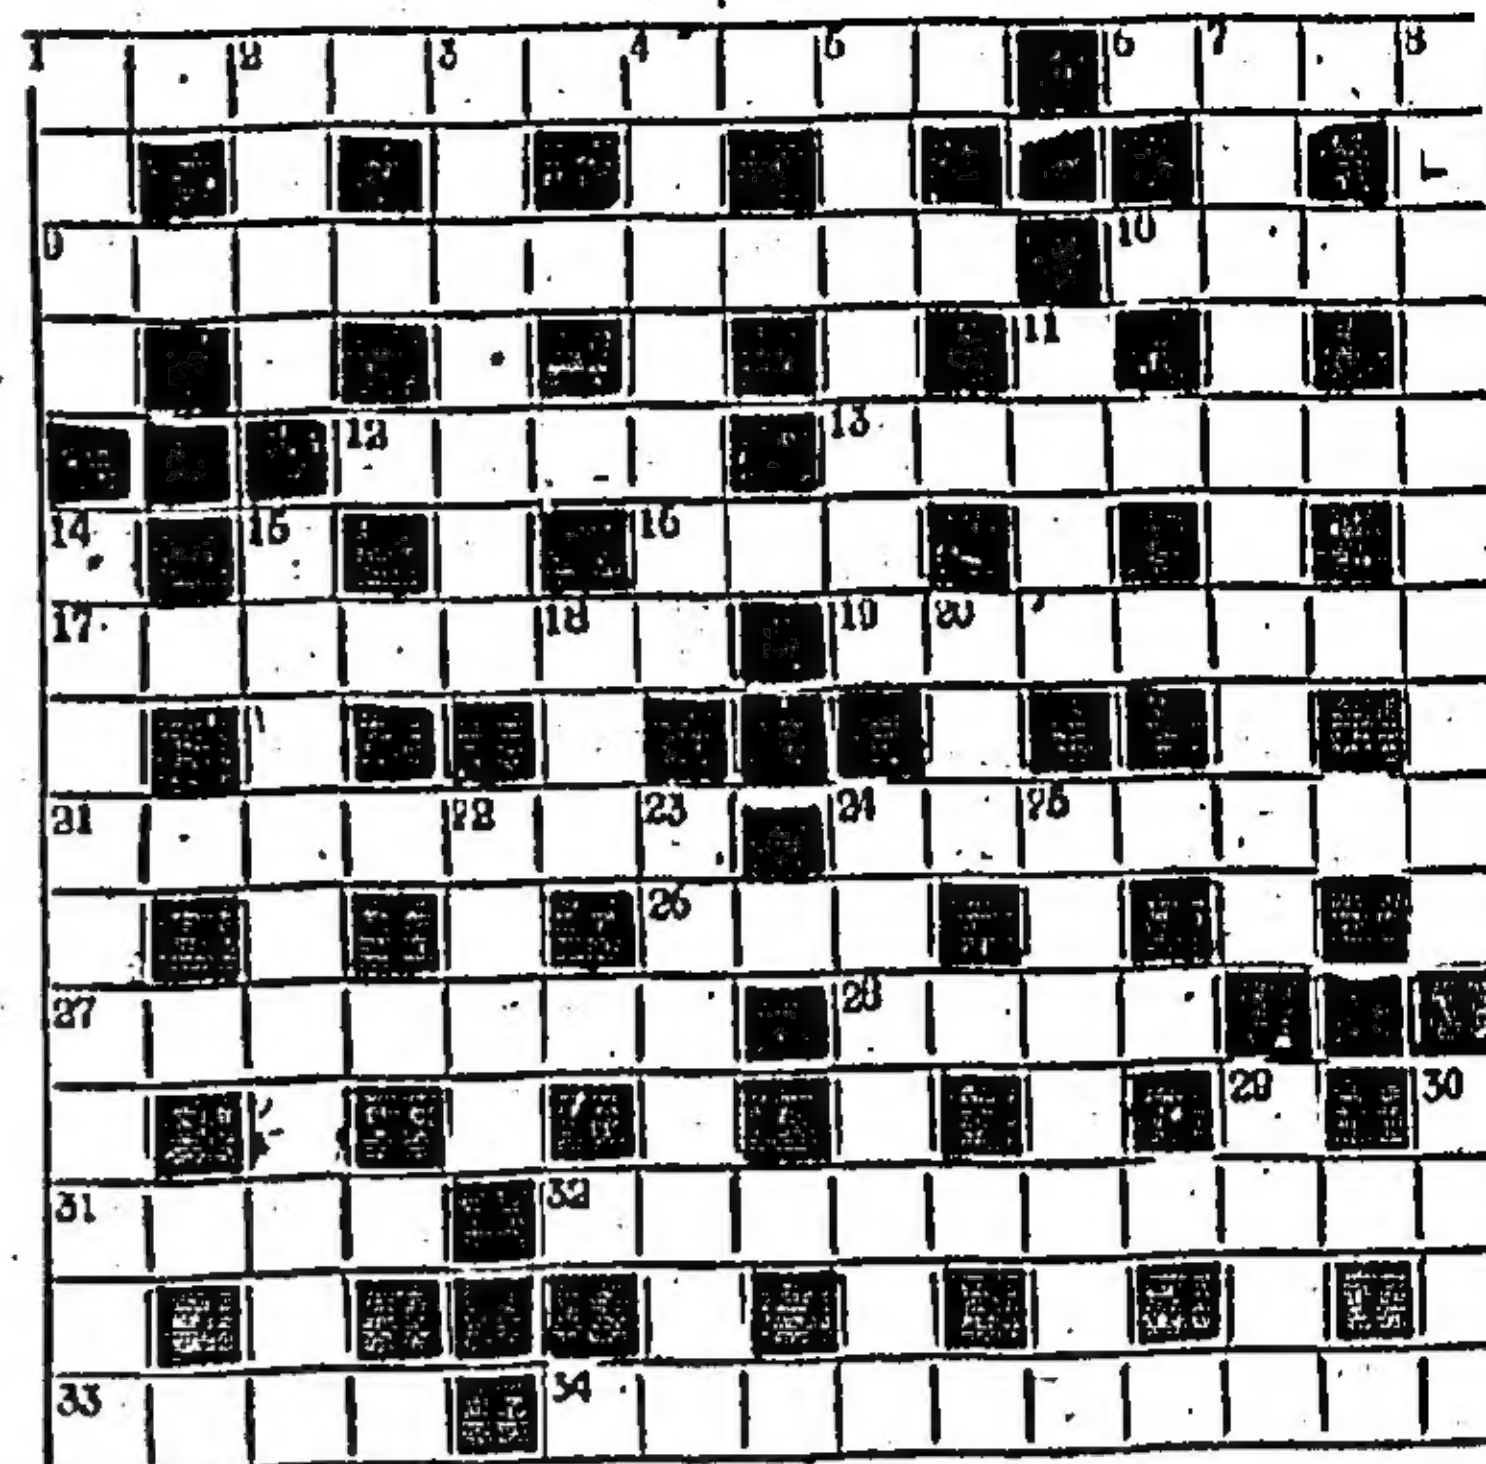

Mouths reveal these qualities far more than eyes do. That is why you should watch your mouth. You can't, just by will-power, make your mouth expressive. You must develop a frame of mind that does the trick. Right now, to be placid, happy, optimistic is hard. But it can be done!

Start mornings by trying to pick out the things for which you should be happy. Try to see the good in those about you. Try to appreciate your good health, your job, your associates. During the day stick to your resolve to be considerate, give others a lift. The last thing at night, count your blessings, go to sleep happy! You will be surprised how your mouth's expression responds to your mood and you will be delighted how your frame of mind shows in your face. That is a first step to charm.

This is Lanvin's "choir boy" collar—consisting of rows of flat ruffles of crepe de chine.

LOVE or MONEY?

BY H. W. CORLEY

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, surprised when her childhood sweetheart, STEVE SACCAANELLI, returned to New York after three years' absence. Mona contributes largely to the support of her mother, invalid father, sister, KITTY, and never-do-well brother, BUD.

Steve has been in South America, where, largely by chance, he has become associated with DARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent, who owns a diamond mine. Together they have made the mine, believed worthless, pay handsomely. Steve owns a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru."

LOTTIE CARL, fashion model, John Moran, Harry and Steve on several dinner and dancing engagements. Mona's brother, Bud, is under obligations to BUCK HARKINS, night club proprietor and gangster, who plots to steal the huge diamond.

Steve tells Mona and Lottie that the diamond is hidden in his apartment. The four young people are there when Bud, following Harkins' orders, telephones that his mother is ill. He comes to take Mona home. The girls depart. Steve suspects trickery and he and Barry hide. Presently someone enters the apartment. It is Bud. He is forced to confess he has come to steal the diamond. Steve, knowing the gangsters may kill the boy for his failure, decides to send him to South America. They drive to Boston to put Bud on a boat.

CHAPTER XV

Mona's voice trembled. "But I don't know what you mean, Steve!" she said. "Why did you say I won't see Bud for a long while? What's happened? Where are you?"

She sat at her desk in the downtown law office. Steve's voice came to her over the telephone.

"I'm talking over long distance," he reassured her. "Bud is with me and he's okay. I'll explain it all when I see you. Let me meet you tonight, will you?"

"Where are you?" Mona asked. Then, "Yes, I'll meet you at five." She put down the telephone in bewilderment. Steve in Boston and Bud with him! What could it mean. She had left Steve last night about to go to his club with Barry. Bud had taken Lottie home and had not returned. Bud and Steve could hardly be called close friends. "Wise guy," was Bud's withering comment when Steve's name was mentioned.

At five o'clock Mona found Steve on the curb in his roadster. She listened carefully while he explained. Without sparing her Steve sketched the previous night's happenings. Bud's affiliation with the gang which was after the Empress, his return to Steve's apartment, his reception and finally the drive to Boston were all described.

"Bud is out of their way by this time," Steve said, eyeing his wrist watch. "Four hours out at sea."

"But—won't they suspect?" Steve shook his head. "I don't think so. You see, even if they think we helped him get away, which I doubt, they won't think of the Canadian boat. We're shipping our machinery via the Miranda. They might think we'd smuggled Bud aboard."

"The machinery didn't go on the Lady Bradford?"

"English boats—or Canadian, either—can't pick up American freight."

For a moment Mona was silent. "Then this means that beside rescuing Bud from the gang, you've risked your life?"

"I have none of them," Steve interrupted. "You have only one brother."

"And you paid Bud's fare to South America. We owe you all that!"

"You owe me nothing. The boy is going down there on a job. He's going to make good at it. Just being free from this crowd will be a godsend." Steve put his hand over Mona's tiny gloved one and looked at her. "You mustn't blame Bud too much. There are a dozen ways kids get caught in these things. Promise of big money, assurance they won't be asked to break the law, bluffs, and then, too late, the realization that things have gone so far there's no road back. I found one. Barry gave it to me. It was up to me to find a way out for Bud."

"The gang will shoot you if they find it out, Steve?"

He nodded in nonchalant agreement. "Yes, but the newspapers with the story about the sale of the Empress will give them such a pain they'll forget Bud ever lived. You'll see!"

Mona left him and climbed the stairs to the apartment in a mixture of moods. Steve had made her understand the importance of secrecy concerning Bud's whereabouts.

Ma had finished supper and washed the dishes. She said Mona could find a bite in the ice box. Ma sat under the light in the tiny parlour, a darning basket in her lap, listening to the dance orchestra from the Palm Gardens playing over the radio.

At her feet, in a clothes basket, lay the Donahue baby. His parents were attending the Elks' Ball and had entrusted the infant to Ma.

"I'll get myself something," Mother, Mona insisted after a look at Sonny, flushed and cosy in his improvised crib. "I'm not very hungry."

"I thought you might be eating with Steve. You often do when you are late this way," her mother remarked with eyes carefully watching Mona's reaction to this observation.

The girl sat down and removed her hat. She turned to place it on a chair.

"Steve asked me," she said. "Oh, I'm so tired. So many worries!"

"I'll fix you up, Min. There, child, sit still! I'll get your supper in no time. A cup of tea will do you good."

Drinking the tea a few minutes later, Mona knew that she would have to broach the subject of Bud.

"I was saving it for Bud," she announced. "Eat it, Min. I made it with nuts the way you like it."

"I must tell her," Mona thought, watching her mother settle in her chair again and thrust her hand into a heavy gray sock.

"Sure Bud's in some scrape, I'll be bound," Ma confided surprisingly. "The telephone was ringing half the day asking was he around."

She sighed. "I worry my heart out over him and that's the truth. I wish he was good like you, Minnie."

"He—brought in money regularly, didn't he?" asked Mona cautiously. If he had not done that this plan of Steve's would pave the way, perhaps, to lessen motherly anxiety at Bud's departure.

"He did not!" Ma answered promptly. "Oh sure, bring it in he would and borrow it out again. I hardly hold it in the hand."

"He'll straighten out," said Mona confidently. "He's young."

"Young! He's old enough to be a better lad, surely."

"Mother," Mona began, "what would you say if I told you that Steve had taken a hand with Bud?"

Then, without dwelling too much on the fact of Bud's connection with the gang, without mentioning the famous diamond, Mona told her mother of Steve's interest in the boy.

Steve had found him a job, "down south," she said. Half of Bud's pay would be sent each week to the family. Steve had promised the job would make a man of Bud.

"Steve gets my boy a job? His interest, I'm thinking, is in you, Min, not Bud."

Mona smiled. The task of the telling had been simpler than she had dared hope. Ma seemed undisturbed at the departure of her son.

"He's been such a worry to me, Min, I do declare," Ma said presently, as if in answer to her daughter's thoughts. "I never liked to tell you. Maybe this job will be the making of him!"

"But," Mona reminded her, "we're not to tell anyone—anyone, Mother—where he is. We aren't even to say 'down south.' Just say he's out of town or in the country."

Busy plying her needle through a sock which Bud would never wear, Mrs. Moran sighed. She was not to be diverted from her original line of thinking.

"I'd like to see you married to some good man, Min," she announced. "Though how we'd get along without you, God knows!"

"That's what you said about Alice," remarked Mona. "She's no better off. She's not as well off as she was when she was single."

"Jim Halliday's a good man," Ma replied conscientiously. Never would she allow anyone to criticize Alice's husband. He's good, but the luck isn't with him," she repeated.

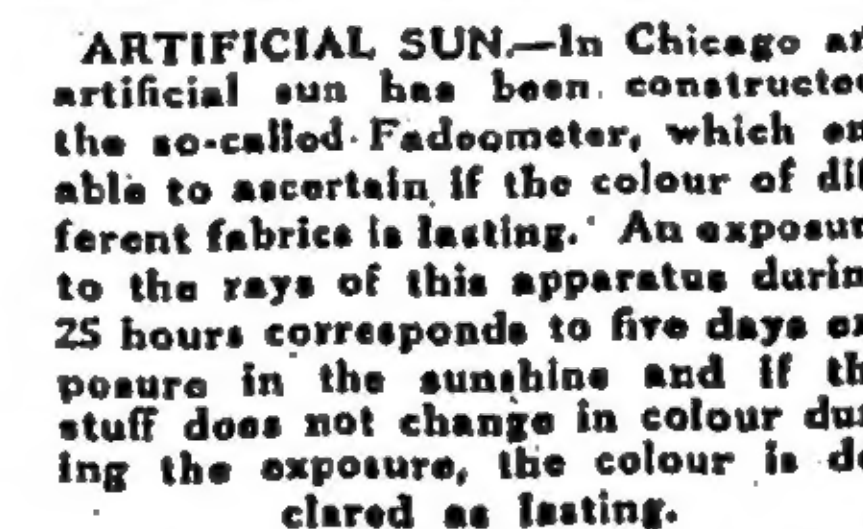

"I don't want to marry yet, Mother. Not for years."

"And then it will be too late," Mrs. Moran mused over her darning.

They were joined soon by Kitty, who trailed out to the kitchen, to forage for a sandwich and cup of milk.

In Long Beach, Compton, and other southern California cities damaged by recent earthquakes, trucks and steam shovels are already busy clearing away debris to make way for rebuilding. A Compton bank building wrecked by the earth tremors is shown at right. U. S. sailors patrolled streets, helped with first aid and relief work.

The flag-draped casket containing the body of Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, victim of an assassin's bullet intended for President Roosevelt, is shown being borne by white-clad American Legionnaires from a Miami, Fla., funeral parlour to be placed in the cortege that escorted it to the railroad station as saddened throngs looked on. Miami police formed a guard of honour on the train which bore the late mayor's body to Chicago for burial.

Dear Sir,
The economic depression and the general unsettled state of the world is really evolutionary and our greatest actual enemy to-day is the feeling of fear engendered by existing conditions. Nations fear each other: individuals fear financial reverses, loss of employment, etc., and this feeling of apprehension is the grimmest spectre that has ever stalked abroad. If it can be laid low one of the most potent contributors to unrest will disappear. Cast away fear and a surprising physical and mental immunity will be gained from the ills to which we are heir.

There need be no fear of mechanical breakdown if you use Castrol motor oil in your Car. The Mollisons, Captain Malcolm Campbell, Kaye Don and hosts of other record breaking Aviators and Motorists who took their lives in their hands owe their success largely to the fact that they chose the best available weapons in their respective fights and reduced fear to a fraction as Castrol reduces friction.

Castrol is sold by the British Imperial gallon which is 20% more than the American or wine gallon and it is obtainable at all the leading garages but if you have any trouble in getting supplies please give us a ring (21746) and we will give immediate attention to your requirements.

Yours faithfully,

Wendy Barrie Is Delightful in "Wedding Rehearsal"

GEORGE RAFT AND HOLLYWOOD: PUBLICITY AGENTS HAVE A QUIET JEST

BY "CELLULOID"

HONGKONG is thronging to see Wendy Barrie in Wedding Rehearsal. They want to see the Colony's first product for the British screen. I joined the expectant crowds on Wednesday and found Wendy Barrie—yes good, very good. A distinct capture for the English studios (I only hope they will go the right way about keeping her), and a charming actress of whom Hongkong can well be proud and satisfied. But beyond Wedding Rehearsal which cannot fail to capture the imagination. It has, I think, the widest appeal of any British film seen in Hongkong for a year. It gives us a new introduction to the development of the English producers' conception of modern cinematic technique. Much of it is mimicry, but it is so excellently done that at the time one is inclined to believe that it is original in idea and presentation.

ALEXANDER Korda, who directed Wedding Rehearsal has not been afraid to follow the lines of Ernst Lubitsch in emphasizing the satirical passages of the picture. Thus in the opening, when we are shown a whole front page of a London "daily" bearing the news of imminent war and a terrible earthquake thrown out for a report of a Society wedding, the satirical gesture is heightened by the pounding of the printing presses with a chorus of voices maintaining tempo and rhythm. Again Korda uses his imagination cleverly to portray a psychological study of the reactions of various people to society wedding. In it he blends an attractive use of the camera and a quick appreciation of wit, when the single expletive "Blas!" is carried round the world through a series of characters finally resting in Hyde Park, where a typical "Red" orator is himself blasting the idle rich for their society wedding. These touches, together with good cutting which accelerates and retards the tempo in keeping with the action, all contribute to a splendid production.

PLUS these qualities the picture enjoys a cast which is probably second to none in British screen today. George Grossmith (remember him in Service for Ladies as His Majesty travelling incognito) has the facility of making a part fit him in distinct contrast to an actor of the type of Maurice Chevalier who has to suit himself to the part, or preferably with a list of roles such as those of him. It is almost inconceivable that anybody else could have taken Roland Young's part. None of his American productions surpass his delightful work in Wedding Rehearsal. Whatever expectations Hongkong had about Wendy Barrie must be completely realised by her clever characterization. Admittedly it does not call for any deep emotional acting, but so convincingly does she handle the breezy portrayal, that I am fully prepared to believe that she would prove equally as capable in a heavier role.

Out for Vengeance

George Raft and Nancy Carroll, who play opposite each other in "Under-Cover Man" now showing at the Queen's.

HOLLYWOOD can be very droll! But at the moment I am puzzled as to its real direction—its droolery is at present operating in regard to George Raft. Raft, the world was told, was the second Valentino. The only present day screen actor who could compare favourably and in S.A. with one of film's greatest lovers. Surely then we should expect to see Valentino's successor handling roles on somewhat similar lines? Yet just take a glance at the films in which we have seen Raft up to the present. "Quick Millions" (gangster), "Madame Racketeer" (crook), "Dancing in the Dark" (racketeer), "If I Had a Million" (crook). How in the name of all that is sensible can one name George Raft "Valentino the Second" with a list of roles such as these? Raft is a first rate slick villain, but as a Valentino—Oh, Please Mr. Publicity Agent!

ALL of which leads me up to a few lines on Raft's present appearance at the Queen's Theatre in Under-Cover Man. Of its type this is a fair film. If you like rapid action, crook Wall Street men who talk through the side of their mouths, and plaster their conversation with underworld idioms, then you will assuredly enjoy this picture. And if there was anything needed to convince me that the only one real character for Raft to portray is that of either an active or a reformed crook, then Under-Cover Man supplies the deficiency. To say that Raft always looks his part is not a reflection on him. It is an acknowledgment that Hollywood always succeeds in selecting its types. Raft is an avenging crook in this picture, and therefore, of necessity a reformed crook. He handles his part with consummate skill, and surrounded as he is by an array of articles such as Lew Cody, Roscoe Karns, David Landau and Nancy Carroll, experiences no difficulty in convincing the audience that Under-Cover Man is a good film. Seeing that it is pegged on a worn out theme, this is no small achievement.

The Front Page, which comes to the King's Theatre on Sunday was produced at a time when the cycle on newspaper films was about half-way through. It followed pictures such as Gentlemen of the Press and Young Man of Manhattan, and those who saw either, or both, of these last mentioned pictures, will be able to form their own conclusions about the different treatment accorded The Front Page. But this apart, the chief interest of the film to the average cinema-goer is the stalling of Adolphe Menjou as the editor of the paper around which the story is woven. It is pretty certain that numbers of Menjou admirers will declare that his finest screen performance; this is his finest screen performance; if anything I lean towards the former view, for what Menjou doesn't put into the performance himself, Lewis Milestone, the director, who you will remember handled "All Quiet on the Western Front" does. It is not direction on the part of Milestone, but it has its phases of delicate light and shade, and although never reaching anything like the genius of "All Quiet" (due mostly to the inferior material in story and theme), is completely adequate.

FROM time to time I have made fairly full references to the institution and progress of the British Film Institute, and now further information concerning this body, whose object it is to put the Homeside film industry "on the map," is to hand.

Latest developments show that the Institute will be the central authority on all cultural and educational films made in England. It will be administered by nine "Governors" who will select their own Chairman. The Governors will be the nominees, in the ratio of three each, of the film industry, of the unofficial commission on whose report the Institute was brought into being, and of the public. The public nominees will be chosen by the trade and the commission.

Representatives who have agreed to serve are: For the trade: Messrs. C. M. Woolf, Sam Eckman, Jr., and Thomas Ormiston, M.P. For the commission: Sir Charles Cleland, Mr. A. C. Cameron, and Mr. R. S. Lambert. There will be a meeting shortly to choose a Chairman. Representatives of the "public" also will be agreed upon.

Tala Birell, as she appears in "Nagana", the Universal Jungle thriller which starts a run at the Central Theatre to day.

THE idea of a Film Institute was first suggested by the report of an unofficial commission on educational and cultural films, of which Mr. Cameron was a joint secretary. Sir Benjamin Gott, formerly Director of Education for Middlesex, and who died a few weeks ago, was Chairman. The report was adopted by the Government, and funds derived from the Sunday opening of cinemas were allocated to a central cinematograph fund to be administered by the Privy Council.

The representatives of the trade were chosen from the main groups. Mr. C. M. Woolf, who is the joint managing director of the Gaumont-British Corporation, was nominated. It is understood, by the Film Group of the Federation of British Industries; Mr. Sam Eckman, Jr., by the Kinematograph Renters' Society; and Mr. Thomas Ormiston by the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association. Mr. Sam Eckman, Jr., is the present President of the K.R.S., a position he has held for the past two years. He is head of the great American firm of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in this country. He is an American citizen.

SIR Charles Cleland is the Director of Education at Glasgow. Mr. A. C. Cameron, who was one of the prime movers and joint secretary of the unofficial commission, is Director of Education at Oxford, and Mr. R. S. Lambert, also intimately connected with the commission, is the editor of the B.B.C. publication "The Listener". Within the film industry there are misgivings as to the future. With television only a matter of development, the appointment of Mr. Lambert, a B.B.C. official, and his activities on the commission are regarded as ominous.

Up to date. This interesting picture taken during the shooting of a scene in one of Eclair's leading studios, gives some idea of how the British film technicians have developed modern ideas in set ups and camera and lighting uses.

AND THESE ON SUNDAY

"The Front Page" King's
 "Faithless" Queen's
 "Nagana" Central
 "Speak Easily" Star
 "Crock" World
 "Blonde Venus" Majestic

Does this mean the further extension of "Radio City"? Does it mean that the B.B.C. seek to control all films in this country, and, through television, control all means of entertainment?

When the six selected Governors meet, they will choose the representatives of the "public." Many names of prominent persons have been put forward. Miss Isabel MacDonald's name has been mentioned, and among others are Lord Lee of Fareham, who is actively connected with the Gaumont-British Corporation, and who has just returned from Hollywood; Lord Eustace Percy, Sir Cecil Levitt, of the L.C.C., Lady Astor, Viscountess Snowden, lately a B.B.C. Governor, Lady Simon, a member of the Licensing Commission, Lord Elgin, and Colonel John Buchan, who was one of the expected nominees of the commission.

ONE question which will be asked is as to what "public" these prominent people represent. A consideration which the selected Governors might bear in mind is the selection of the newly appointed free and independent Inquirer of the British Board of Film Censors, who has shown that he is actively in touch with public opinion in films.

It has been suggested that the position of secretary of the Institute will be held jointly by a representative of the film industry and a nominee of the commission. The probable selection will be Mr. Reginald V. Crow for the film industry, and Mr. J. W. Brown, who is secretary of the British Institute of Adult Education.

In this work he is closely connected with the B.B.C.

Ho Yao-chu, Assistant Chief of Staff, and Mr. Chang Fong-chu, local representative of Mr. King Shu-chen, deposed Governor of Sinkiang, to that province in order to investigate the situation there. It was reported a few days ago that Mohammedan insurgents had overthrown the governor and captured the capital.—Reuter.

WAR DEBTS.

It is now crystal clear that no serious efforts to secure a settlement of the war debts question is contemplated by the British or American Government prior to the meeting of the World Economic Conference. As the key to the whole world-complex, political and economic, it has naturally taken up a considerable amount of the time occupied in the Roosevelt-MacDonald conversations. But the brief communique issued on the subject signified abandonment of the negotiations contemplated. It is rather a pity. The prolonged uncertainty cannot be relieved. The main impediment to enterprise both in Great Britain and on the Continent remains to be overcome. President Roosevelt has, therefore, chosen the next best thing, a moratorium until after the meeting of the Economic Conference. In this matter, President Roosevelt's difficulties with Congress are still extreme although Mr. Rainey probably reflects a wider attitude when he says that, although hostile to the moratorium, he will support any request made by the President. The corresponding difficulties of British statesmen are in certain respects, insuperable. The real position of Great Britain is seldom stated with simplicity. It is a reasonable attitude—one that human nature in the same predicament would take up in any land. The word is "equality." Under the heaviest terms Britain tried hardest to pay. By comparison with other nations she has been conspicuously penalised. No Government in Great Britain could live if it accepted the proposition that Britain should become a universal scapegoat; that we should be the only nation bound to international payments for the World War. If those payments are to continue in any shape, the sacrifices will have to be justly spread amongst all the nations concerned. Germany will have to do her part. But the attempt to revive reparations in any shape or form would be like throwing a monkey-wrench into the new mechanism for advancing recovery and underpinning peace. This is the crux. It must be faced with supreme good sense. Otherwise every project of world-cooperation will be thrown far back. The last state would be worse than the first. The results of the Economic Conference would be harmful rather than null. That would not be the end of the failure.

Weighty Water

Heavy water has been discovered. A distinguished California chemist has announced that "isotopes" have got into the hydrogen of ordinary H₂O in some places and raised the combined weight 10 per cent. The discovery may upset the existing international standard of weights and measures. When, where and how the isotopes inserted themselves in the water, reports do not clearly explain, but it is sufficient for the layman that the "critters" are there. An isotope is defined as a new class of atom that is twice as heavy as the ordinary breed associated with the chief element of water. The chemists have been so busy trying to keep the neutrons and electrons apart and the physicists so intent upon chasing the cosmic ray to its lair that the isotopes have been overlooked. It is probable that they slipped into the water at about the same time that one of them slipped into the addenda of the latest edition of Mr. Webster's dictionary. In all probability they will make the main section in the next issue. Meanwhile the layman is edified with the definition that an isotope is "one of two or more elements occupying the same position in the periodic table, practically identical in chemical behaviour and distinguishable only by radioactive transformations and small differences in atomic weight."

Chemists say that if too many isotopes get into the water it will have a greater density than the water of Great Salt Lake. Housekeepers will meet soon to protest any prospective advent of heavier water. They declare that a bucketful of ordinary water is heavy enough for them to lug around the kitchen. But promoters of watered stock are not interested. Even a generous supply of isotopes would not float their commodity just now.

Bullfights in the Movies

Bullfights are utterly repugnant to most people outside of Spain. Motion pictures depicting them have no place in their concept of decent entertainment. An announcement that Hollywood was producing such a film has roused widespread, indignant protest. The lame excuse proffered that the bullfight would not be filmed in the United States, which of course the law would not permit, anyway—does not hold water. As the National Humane Review pertinently says, "If a bullfight were to be filmed there would have to be a bullfight, and it would make no difference to the bulls and the horses whether the fight took place in California, Mexico or Spain." Can it be that the saturation point for cheap gangster pictures having been reached, the motion picture industry is casting around for new thrills for jaded appetites? And that the immature and adolescent surfeit with the false gallantry of the gunman and his tawdry pleasures, are now to be exposed to the realistic butchery of the bull arena camouflaged with the gaudy accoutrements of a prancing torero? In Spain the bullfight is yielding to the wholesome activities of athletics such as football, tennis and golf. Should it be permitted in the United States to turn back the clock? Putting worn-out horses to cruel torture and slaughtering bulls to provide "amusement" can have no place in the codes of Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and all kindred associations. And surely parents everywhere will place such films on the forbidden list. If movie producers and distributors have their ears to the ground, they will hear the unmistakable "No" to all such proposals.

DON'T FOLLOW IN FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS

Advice to the Younger Generation—

By MAY EDGINTON

Hail Youth! Every man and woman of forty and over envies you.

Strangely enough, the young also envy the man and woman of forty—though not over forty. They envy them their privileges, their power, and their "freedom." But this envy is as nothing to the other envy; the young outgrow it as they outgrow their clothes. The other envy, once felt, endures. Here is the year 1933, and a crisis of the world. What a good time in which to be old! It is a good time in which to be young because soon the world will be seething with amazing opportunities; boys now making elementary tests in school laboratories will startle the world with immense new discoveries for manufacturing, for medicine, for politics, for new discoveries—let us face it—for new deaths in war, as well as for new glories in peace.

YOUTH NOT UNMANNERLY.

Every girl now growing up can be stronger, more beautiful, more knowledgeable than the women before her.

It is usual for mature people to keep their envy secret. I have never been silent about mine. Contrary to general opinion, as imparted to me, I find the young extraordinarily tactful, courteous and good-tempered; as in fact the youth of every age has always had to be—or suffer for it. The grudgings and grumbling, the tantrums and the rages, usually come from elderly people who, if all their tales of their excellent upbringing could be believed, should be, in middle age, perfect examples to all those less experienced. For its tolerance towards such disagreeable folk, I admire youth with an almost untempered admiration.

The young of to-day furnish a topic that I happen to discuss frequently with various paternal families, all of whom unwittingly display to me, much magnified, the very faults they complain of in their sons. There is a sore subject called heredity upon which we do not touch. The young are always with us as a bone of contention, and as it was in the beginning so it is now; and so it always will be, unless the generation now growing up become the perfect parents, seeing the note in their own eyes before condemning the note in the eye of the boy or the girl.

KEEN ON REALITIES.

Curiosity is not the least of my emotions when I contemplate the young. It seems to me that they have adopted for themselves a new form of education that might well make the schoolmaster, and his natural enemy the parent, think a little.

For instance, my own son failed to gain a school certificate on leaving his public school because he is hopeless at mathematics. But for some years he has read the financial column of the newspapers and will speak to me with acute interest and shrewd knowledge of the markets.

It may be that the Tudor period bores him by comparison with the events of his own day; he may be uncertain about the Normans; but from abroad he writes to me keenly about the current international crises, and rejoices in or bemoans the result of the most remote by-election in Great Britain.

I suggest, therefore, that the youth of to-day is more interested in plunging into current history than the pageant of the past, however picturesque.

One of the most important things to be taught in any school, to my mind, would be the history of labour, from the day of the sort until now; another is the history of politics, national and international; and, similarly, the history of trade.

FATUOUS ELDERS.

But the Norman Conquest, the Wars of the Roses, the indiscretions of certain Kings... Youth finds so much there that is irrelevant to the sharp pressing needs of immediate life, to the torrent of to-day's affairs, that over comparatively dusty studies it is apt to be lethargic. One notices youth, then, picking its way, accepting this and rejecting that, till: "You've got a shocking bad report boy. You're an idle young dog." Glided youth still shows fatuous in its gaities upon occasion, but never so fatuous as were our forefathers, with their gaming clubs, their drinking bouts, their "wild oats," and the number of their regulation fair ladies.

AUGURY FOR FUTURE.

There is an asceticism of habit abroad to-day that is a very fine augury for the future. The best boys are self-disciplined to an extent few of their fathers ever knew. Perhaps the best girls are too.

It does not dismay me at all to hear that any of my young friends has possessed himself, with pride, of an old car, and has been seen with a damsel at a "road house." Youth moves with the times and would soon be left behind if it did not.

There is practically no boy and no girl who should follow a parent's example.

I would give youth all possible freedom. To-day that freedom would be spent mostly in the open air. The "temptations" that the elders knew and, later, feared would now be dull, trite, foolish. Many of them exist no more.

There is another change of mind—I will not say "heart"—which I notice in these youngsters.

POVERTY UNREVERED.

In my young days a prunes-and-prisms governess could tell me the tale of the nice Emperor who on a certain day of the year used to wash the sore feet of the beggars. I admired this good man. But if I told the tale to a child now he would—of reasoning age at all—probably ask: "Why were there beggars? Why did he only wash their sore feet? Why didn't he look after his kingdom better?"

The young to-day have a pity for poverty—no reverence. They may admire the giving of alms, but will first deplore the necessity. Mere gestures are nothing to them; they translate the formula and analyse the gesture. In their souls they have abolished the precedent; though they may not let us know it, because they are always afraid of us.

And we are always afraid of them.

The Very Idea! NATURE'S HAIR RESTORER

By Eddie Kelly, Gland Expert.

"HOT news for sheep," said Professor Kelly. It has been found after long experiment that the removal of the pineal gland from sheep vastly increases the growth of wool, says an Australian magazine.

"So intricate and delicate is the operation," continues the journal, "that the discovery can be of no commercial value."

So much for science. Excited sheep may now resume their seats, until we are finished. The remarkable effect of similar experiments on human beings has, up till now, not been disclosed.

That's why, discarding all professional niceties, we are going to disclose them.

The case of Aspen Peak will be called to mind by all interested in this gland treatment. He had his Pineal gland removed. The results exceeded all expectations.

His trousers grew to enormous proportions. He was saved from death by suffocation by the adequate and all-round operation. His braces preventing his trousers from growing up over his face. His boots grew to such an extent that he was able to go for long walks in them until he caught up with his toe caps.

He was found, starved to death, in the lining of his hat, three weeks after the conclusion of the experiment.

Then there was Annie MacAnna, a native of Western Abyssinia, who had her face lifted to such an extent that the only way she could present a decent facial complexion to the world was to rouge her knees. Not that this has anything to do with glands.

The foregoing is merely mentioned in order to point out how dangerous it is for unqualified practitioners to dabble in new sciences.

One of the most harrowing instances of this was Mr. X, who had part of his Dollar glands removed.

According to his depositions, his hotel chits became out of all proportions, and his working expenses seemed to get bigger. At the same time his circle of acquaintances grew smaller, the shroffs grew nastier, and his socks shrank, shrank, and shrank.

He died of applied economics, a martyr to science, his last words being: "Ain't it gland to be bloomin' well dead."

Fortunately, we still have all our glands intact.

WE APOLOGISE.

Dear Edward Kelly.—I don't believe all the stories you tell about your "headache" are true. If they are, they're not a true reflex of married life.

I am a married man, but I have never spoken harshly to my wife or called her names—except "Duckywuck" or "Wooshywoosh," or something like that.

My wife has never in her married life thrown a saucepan or anything like that at me. The worst she has ever called me is "Naughty-naughty."

I have never kept back a cent from her since we were married. Neither have I told her a lie, or come home to find her out playing bridge on the Peak.

I sincerely hope you will print this in fairness to those people who might get a wrong idea of marriage from reading your column. Marriage is wonderful. I know. I've been married eight days and one hour.—Yours sincerely, MACK.

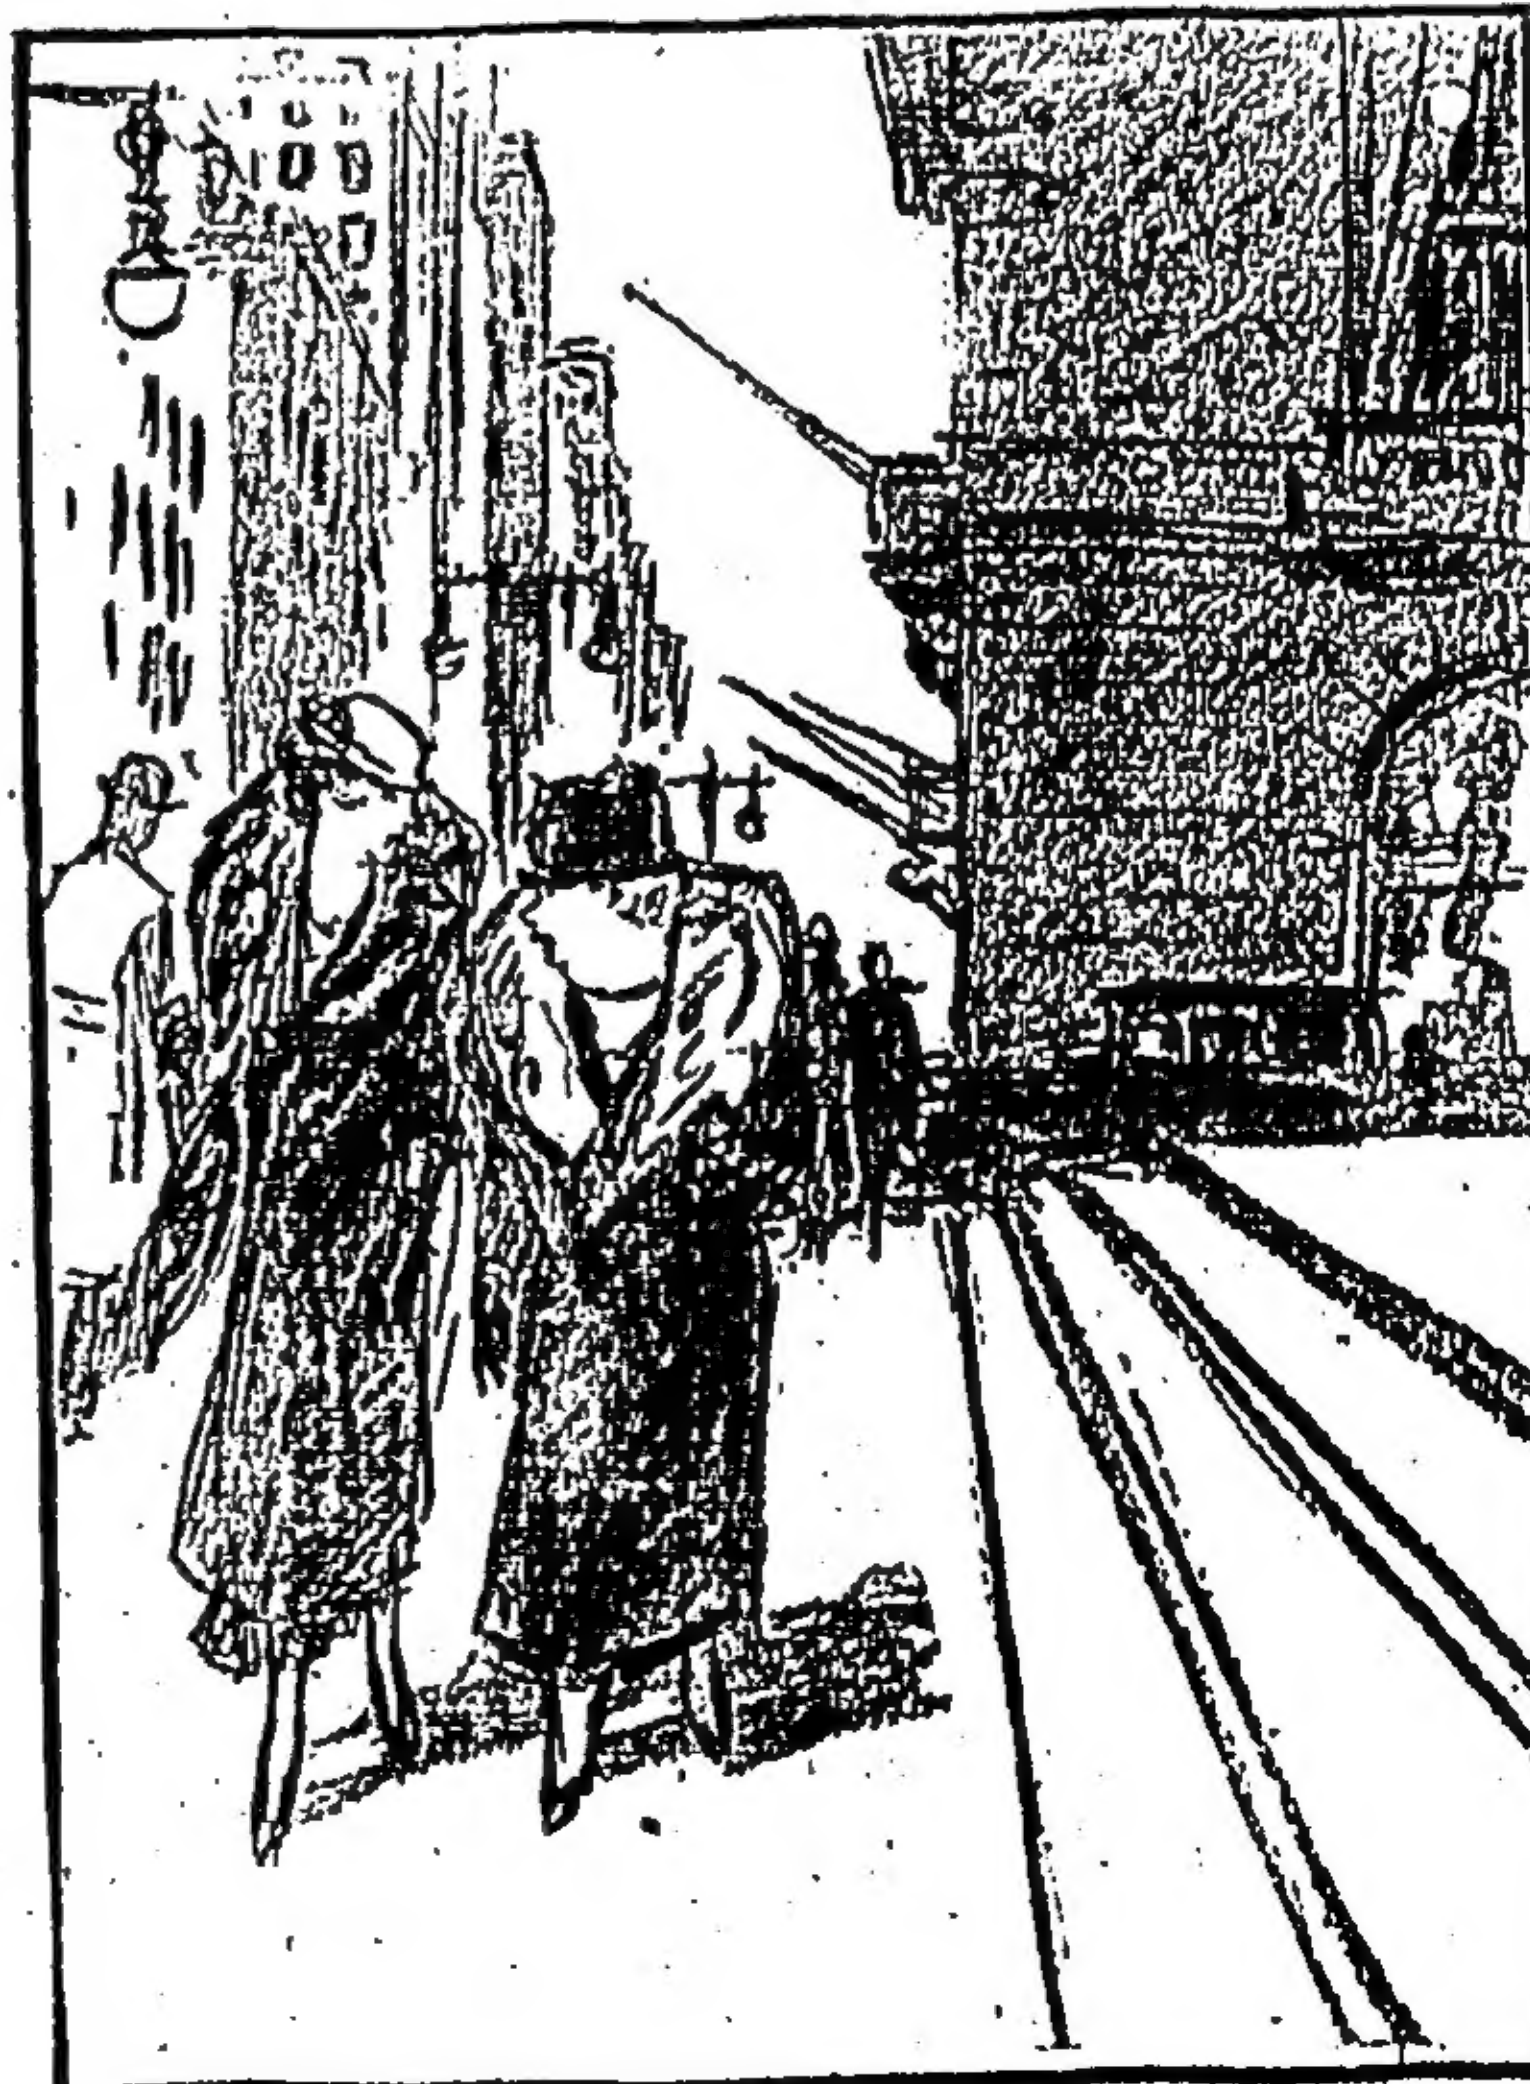

FACE THE FACTS.

The text-book, "Dials and How to Decipher Them," by Professor Kelly (our copy from Dodder and Company) is crowded with useful notes for those with the courage to examine their own faces. Some typical extracts:—

"Ears.—A thick ear indicates a quarrelsome disposition; an ear presenting a gnarled or bitten appearance shows that the owner is still earning money; a ploughed, or gravel-worn surface shows that he gets drunk and comes home on it. An exceptionally long ear indicates political aptitude; if the ear is missing altogether, it denotes that he is married."

"Nose.—Colour (if possible in conjunction with breath) is the best guide here. A reliable scale is:—Rose—pink, beer; vermilion, beer and gin; lobster, vodka; maroon, O.P. rum. In the case of maiden ladies, omit these deductions and rofer with tact to the weather. A much-enlarged nose shows a talkie—send who has tried to imitate Hollywood language."

"Eyes.—If badly crossed, in the effort to see two ways at once, they indicate a pedestrian. Eyes protruding like gooseberries denote a subject who has received his hotel account or alternatively a frequenter of the beach at Repulse Bay."

"Days like this I always feel the call of nature. Let's see if there is a good jungle movie on."

CHESTER LOSE CHANCE

SMALL HOPE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

London, Apr. 27.
Chester lost practically all hopes of winning the championship of the Northern Section of the Third Division to-day, when, visiting Doncaster, they were held to a draw, both teams scoring once.

Chester can now only obtain a maximum total of 56 points, and as Hull, with three games outstanding, have 55, and Wrexham, with three additional matches to play, have 53 points, the championship contest will rest between these two.

Darlington are pretty well assured of the "wooden spoon" since they lost by three clear goals to Carlisle. The three leading positions in the table are occupied as follows:

	P.	W.	D.	L.	F.	A.	Pts.
Hull	29	24	7	8	93	41	55
Wrexham	29	22	9	8	103	50	53

MISS LYDIA MICHEL.

DELIGHTFUL VOCAL CONCERT TO BIG AUDIENCE

The talented German mezzo-soprano, Miss Lydia Michel, gave a delightful vocal concert at the roof garden of the Hongkong Hotel last night, before a big audience. The programme was a most pleasing one, and the items were enthusiastically applauded. The concluding items, a series of German folk songs, must have particularly pleased the lady's fellow nationals, who were present in force. Mr. Harry Ore at the piano was a sympathetic accompanist.

ON WRONG CHARGE

PROSECUTION FAILS IN OPIUM CASE

A charge of aiding and abetting brought under the wrong Ordinance contributed to the discharge of Yu Man, who was charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, with aiding and abetting Kan Yuet in running an opium divan at No. 3, Wa Lane, 1st floor.

The first defendant, Kan Yuet, had pleaded guilty to this charge, and to another of possession of 5 mace of prepared opium, when he first came up before Mr. Schofield. He was accordingly fined $40 or three weeks imprisonment for possession, and $125 or six weeks imprisonment for keeping a divan.

Mr. H. K. Holmes outlined the case and made his contentions for the Crown, and then asked leave to withdraw, saying that Revenue Officer Grimmer could then carry on with the prosecution. Mr. F. X. D'Almada (Jr.) appeared for both defendants.

Addressing the Court, Mr. Holmes said that the second defendant was charged with aiding and abetting because of his position as principal tenant.

Mr. Holmes, at this stage, outlined briefly the law of aiding and abetting, after which he detailed the positions of the cubicles in the premises.

Continuing, he said that the matter of residence in the place was very important, because it was not what the person who was residing in the place was doing, but what the outsider was doing.

He submitted that the principal tenant had such control of the coming and goings of outsiders in his premises, and if the incidence of a divan was so apparent, it was his duty to exercise control over the coming and goings of outsiders.

Mr. Holmes based his submission from references to similar cases in Law Reports. He then asked permission of his Worship to withdraw, the permission being granted.

Revenue Officer's Evidence.

Revenue Officer Grimmer said that at 11.30 a.m. on April 11 he raided No. 3, Wa Lane, 1st floor. In the front cubicle he found an opium divan being run by the first defendant, who said he paid $24 rent for a month. He found ten other persons lying on beds with five opium pipes and six lamps between them. All were smoking and said they had bought the opium from the first defendant.

Witness asked for the principal tenant, and a woman, who turned out to be the principal tenant's wife, said he was in the premises. Witness then entered the second cubicle and there saw the principal tenant, who produced rent receipts. The principal tenant said he had rented the divan portion of the premises to the first defendant for $24 and the first cubicle for $8. The principal tenant also said that he did not know that it was used as a divan, but knew now.

In reply to Mr. Schofield, the witness said that when he entered the place was full of fumes, which could not be mistaken except as of opium.

Mr. D'Almada submitted he had no case to answer on the ground that the charge was brought under the wrong section.

Mr. Schofield agreed in this respect, and said that under the present section the second defendant must be discharged.

Revenue Officer Grimmer said that the police who charged the defendant had apparently used their own discretion as to what charge should be brought against the defendant. The Crown Solicitor himself said that that section applied, and was arguing on it.

Mr. Schofield remarked that he thought he would have to put it over and see what the Crown Solicitor was arguing on. But on the present charge he discharged the second defendant.

The first defendant was fined as previously stated.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET BULLISH

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Frits, the New York market was bullish yesterday. Business done: 1,800,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports:—The market was dull and stocks declined a little all round. The majority of traders have withdrawn their operations pending definite tendencies of the inflation situation.

Brokers' loans were reported at $488,000,000, an increase of $75,000,000 as compared with last week's figure of $413,000,000.

Time money was quoted at 1½% for 60 and 90 days.

SOVIET AMBASSADOR SILENT

Nanking, Apr. 26.
While resolutely refusing to express his views on political matters, at least not before he presents his credentials, M. Bogomoloff, newly appointed Soviet Ambassador to China who arrived here to-day, told newspapermen that a Soviet Embassy will be established in Nanking where he had to take up residence. M. Bogomoloff said that the main object of his present visit to the Capital was to arrange a date for presentation of his Credentials to Mr. Li Sen, Chairman of the National Government.

The Soviet Ambassador will call on Mr. Lo Wen-kun, Foreign Minister, on Thursday, Mr. Lo will then entertain him to dinner in the evening.—Reuter.

LIKELY WINNERS AT TO-MORROW'S RACE MEETING

LEAGUE

IMPORTANT GAMES FOR TO-MORROW

LINCOLNS AS BIG HURDLE FOR S. CHINA TO OVERCOME

ARTILLERY'S LAST ENCOUNTER

(By "Veritas")

With the four leading teams of the first division all engaged in matches to-morrow further elucidation of the championship and runners-up problems appear likely.

The most important clash is between South China and the Lincolns, as success for the soldiers would keep them still in the running for second place, and at the same time materially damage South China's prospects for the chief honours.

On the other hand neither the Royal Artillery, who meet St. Joseph's in their last match of the season, nor the Borderers who have the Recrelo in opposition, can afford to drop points if their challenge for one of the two leading positions is to be of any value.

South China will probably be able to turn out their strongest eleven to meet the Lincolns, in which case they can be regarded as fairly certain winners. Nevertheless that energetic Lincoln forward line will require careful watching on the part of Lau Mau, Li Tin-sang, Wong Mee-shun and Leung Wing-chul.

LEUNG'S JOB.

Against the Athletic on Wednesday, Leung Wing-chul was sent across from the right to the left wing to shadow Cheung Min-wing, but in view of the danger which will threaten from the Hilder-Hocquard combination, he will most certainly remain in his rightful position at right half.

The Lincolns great task will be to stop Fung King-chung and Co. from over-running and some improvement on the part of the halves will be necessary if this is to be accomplished.

Against the Navy too much work and responsibility was thrust on Ash and Turner and Henth. Quicker and more decisive tackling is required to hold up the fast moving Chinese quintette.

GOUGH TO PLAY.

The Royal Artillery are turning out their strongest possible side to meet St. Joseph's. As anticipated in the Telegraph on Monday, Gough, who has joined the Police Force, is being permitted to play in this last game for the Artillery, and their line-up will be: Combe; Allen and Wroe; Rodgers, Pardoe, and Harrie; Gough, Edmunds, Bryant, McDonald and Seal, with Walker as reserve.

The Saints have deteriorated to such an extent that it will be surprising if they can prevent this team from taking the points at stake.

The Borderers should be able to keep up with South China and the Artillery. A win against the Recrelo appears a foregone conclusion, even taking into consideration the marked improvement shown by the Portuguese since Christmas.

The remainder of the programme holds no interest, the matches in the second and third divisions on Saturday and Sunday having no effect on the championships.

FOOTBALL

MACKAY'S TEAM WINS TOURNEY

The final match of the St. Andrew's Club seven-a-side hockey tournament was decided on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon, when the Rest defeated N. A. E. Mackay's team by two goals to nil. Miss F. Wong and F. V. Wong netted for the winners. The final standings of the teams are as follows:—1. Mackay's team; 2. R. H. Wong's team; 3. A. E. P. Guest's team; 4. E. F. Fincher's team; 5. F. V. Wong's team; 6. E. H. P. White's team.

Although there are a few matches outstanding, it is probable they will not be played off, as the weather is getting too warm for hockey.

The Champions had the distinction of fielding a full seven in all their encounters.

Tam Kong-pak Before Committee

SEQUEL TO SOCCER INCIDENT

Tam Kong-pak, the South China inside right, appeared before the Football Association Management Committee yesterday for an enquiry into the incident which led to his being turned off the field in the Senior Shield final against the South Wales Borderers on Easter Saturday.

No decision, however, was reached, the referee failing to put in appearance, whilst intimidation was also given that evidence of some of the spectators who saw the incident, would be required. The proceedings were adjourned until Tuesday next.

OBJECT TO SUNDAY PLAY.

It was announced that the Club reserves had arranged to play off their Division 2 match with the Navy on Saturday.

The Kowloon v Chinese Athletic game, scheduled for Sunday on the Club ground has been postponed at the request of Kowloon, who intimated that they preferred not to participate in Sunday football.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

Lieut. J. H. Hocquard Wins Monthly Competition.

The following were the best scores at the April monthly shoot of the Hongkong Rifle Club:

Monthly spoons were awarded to J. H. Hocquard, A. Chappello and R. W. Godson in their respective classes.

The Y.M.C.A. hockey club concluded its season yesterday when the second eleven met the Lincolnshire regiment 2nd XI at King's Park and was beaten three goals to one. The "Y" played 10 men throughout and the only goal was netted by R. Baldwin.

Strong Fields Expected in Nearly All Events

DIANA BAY A NON STARTER IN MT. PARKER PLATE

Trentbridge Should Walk Away With the St. George's Plate

(By "Ringtail")

"THE HUNCHBACKS" PLATE.

Some of the moderate subscription griffins of this season will face the starter in the "Hunchbacks" Plate and those who have been looking forward to seeing Krata Viz racing in a short distance event should see the pony in action to-morrow. Charming Face which ran a couple of good races not very long ago stands winning chances and a change of jockey may do it good. Black Velvet, White Butterfly and Auction Bridge are good long shots, as any of them may get a place.

CHARTERS TOWERS HANDICAP.

In the Charters Towers Handicap for Australian ponies Lucy Gitters with only 100 lbs to manage strike me as a good proposition particularly at this distance quills it well. Canny will be taken out by A.J.P. Heard. Although it is a good looking animal I have little faith in it because of the presence of Friar Tuck (L. G. Frost), Lucy Gitters (Black) and Mermaid which are all considered to have a winning chance.

SECOND KALGAN PLATE.

Punters who can pick the winner in the Second Kalgan Plate may reap the harvest of a handsome dividend, because most of the candidates here stand about equal chances. Some of them have improved since their last appearances. Among those which have shown some form before are Melody, No Fear, Vigilance, Dorian, etc. I was told that Aden is a good palloper here, but if it wins there will be a substantial dividend. Cosack's Blood will be ridden by P. Young, who has a high opinion of his mount.

ST. GEORGE'S PLATE.

There will be only three starters in the St. George's Plate in a good winning chance are most obvious, because of this pony's most recently excellent showing in the Hongkong meetings. The pony will be ridden by A.J.P. Heard and his chances are most obvious, because of this pony's most recently excellent showing in the Hongkong meetings. The pony will be ridden by A.J.P. Heard and his chances are most obvious, because of this pony's most recently excellent showing in the Hongkong meetings.

Glengloag which has been given one lb. more to carry than its stable mate, Cyclamen Bay will have E.O. Butler as its rider, while L. G. Frost will come out on Cyclamen Bay. The latter ran an excellent race lately in Happy Valley under Butler who was not carrying whip or spur on the occasion. The two Dynasty candidates, King's Bounty and Holman will both spot colours. I fancy King's Bounty over this sprint affair, but because of its light weight both Holman and Gay Crusader may prove profitable for an outsider's bet.

MOUNT DAVIS HANDICAP.

Dee will be carrying 108 lbs for the Mount Davis Handicap over one mile distance race. Rather a little partial to distance and if anything happens to National Day or Duplex the pony should get a place. National Day which has one win and one place to its credit will be ridden again by P. Young and is sure to be strongly supported. Gay Butterfly with A.J.P. Heard in the saddle is a real danger, while De Minimis will have a change of jockey running under P. Young.

Wayward Stag will be in Kuy-ying's mount and those who are looking for an outsider shot should put their money on this combination, which ran so close to the winner last meeting. Widnes which ran a good race in Macao lately will be amongst the starters, while L. G. Frost will be seen in the saddle on Tillicum. Incidentally Frost considers that his mount has a good chance here. California and Mignonette are both worth while following for a place bet.

WATER POLO STARTS AT Y.M.C.A.

COMBINED NAVY WIN A VERY KEEN MATCH

"YOUNG MEN" DISORGANISED BY TEAM ALTERATIONS

The water polo season of 1933 has officially started at the European Y.M.C.A.

Yesterday the "Young Men" had their first match of the summer when they entertained the Combined Navy side, and were defeated 5-4, after leading 3-1 at half time.

The Navy turned out their strongest team possible and caught the Y.M.C.A. napping.

Two changes were made in the "Y" side and this rather upset the team work. J. Henry could not turn out and Kerr made too late an appearance.

Outstanding in the Navy team were Hutton at centre-half and Laker at centre-forward. Both are County players at Home, and it is a pity that Laker is to be lost to Hongkong polo.

THE PLAYERS.

On the whole none of the Y.M.C.A. players acquitted themselves very creditably. Nicolls, deputising for Angus in goal, lacks experience more than anything else. Donn displayed the need of practice and Schreuder, although to the forefront was not allowed to be seen at his best owing to the disjointment of the team. Longe was about the most impressive of the home side, but he showed a tendency to hang on to the ball too long, a fault which he would be well advised to eliminate.

Campbell started off at centre-half, but finished up in the forward line where he showed to much better advantage.

E. W. Ralston had to play at half speed owing to hip trouble, but he played his customary sound game.

Schreuder (2) Campbell and Donn netted for the Y.M.C.A. and Laker (3) and McRae (2) replied for the Navy.

A return match is being played at the "Y" Bath on Monday next, when the home team will be at full strength and should be able to reverse the result.

The opening ceremony of the Chinese Athletic Association's new bathing pavilion at Quarry Bay will take place next Saturday at 2.30 p.m., the ceremony being performed by Mr. Chan Lim-pak.

FILIPINO TENNIS TEAM COMING

WILL BE HERE NEXT MONTH OR JUNE

Information has been received in Hongkong to the effect that the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation are definitely sending a tennis team on tour of the China coast, and that the players will visit Hongkong either during the last week in May or the first in June. It is understood they will be prepared to play in exhibition matches in Hongkong.

CHINESE TAILOR SENT TO PRISON.STOLE FROM COMPATRIOT
IN RESTAURANT

Lau Tak, 48, a tailor of Mongkok district, appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon, charged with stealing a gold watch, gold chain and purse, containing $36, to the total value value of $236, the property of Wong Yin, manager of the Tung Fat shoe shop, 40, Lower Lascar Row, on April 21.

Appearing for the defence, Mr. C. Y. Kwan entered a plea of guilty.

Detective-Sergeant F. W. Fowle, prosecuting, said that the complainant with a friend went to the Tai Chung Kwok Restaurant, third floor, where they talked over a cup of tea for fifteen minutes. Previous to being seated at a central table, complainant hung his jacket at a hat-stand. While conversing with his friend, he looked and saw the defendant extracting the watch, chain and purse from the pocket. He shouted "Thief," and the defendant hastened to the entrance of the lift, but he was caught by the complainant before he could get there. Defendant was seen to drop the articles near the hat-stand.

A previous conviction for theft in 1913, and subsequent banishment for five years, was admitted by the defendant.

Mr. Kwan, addressing the Bench, said the defendant was first convicted shortly after his arrival here in 1913, on a charge of larceny by finding, and served six weeks. He was subsequently banished for five years, and at the expiration of that term, he immediately returned in 1919. Defendant had been in Hongkong ever since and had reformed, and on this occasion he was probably in financial trouble, and yielded to temptation. He had four dependents, an aged mother, a wife, a child of 11 years of age, and a sister-in-law, to support.

Sergeant Fowle remarked that defendant would be automatically banished at the expiration of the sentence.

Taking a lenient view, the Magistrate passed sentence of six weeks' hard labour.

When Work is a Burden.

You may not suspect partial constipation. But this is a frequent cause. Incomplete elimination of waste matter results in gradual accumulations which contaminate the blood, resulting in loss of mental and physical energy. Constipation either slight or severe, reduces vitality, interferes with digestion, causes flatulence, loss of appetite and resultant mal-nutrition. The constipated person cannot possibly feel fit and his work is proportionately more burdensome. Try a few doses of Pinkettes and note what a difference is immediately effected. Pinkettes gently and nature but with a cleansing thoroughness, cleanse the entire food tract and digestive system, put an end to contamination of the blood, restore you to happiness and energetic enjoyment of your work. The occasional dose keeps you fit. All chemists can supply you with Pinkettes, Liver and Laxative Perfection.

GERMAN YOUTHS
IN HONGKONG

THE WANDERVOGELS

Aiming to cement international friendship by intercourse with the youth of all nations, five young Germans, members of the Wandervogels, the oldest Youth movement in Germany, arrived in Hongkong on Wednesday aboard the s.s. Sandviken and are now staying with members of the local German community.

Rudolf Schaefer leads the party, all the members of which come from the Rhineland country around Cologne. Since they left Germany in May of last year, they have travelled through many parts of the continent, traversed America and then crossed the Pacific to Japan and China.

Everywhere they have been, meetings with Boy Scouts Associations, Y. M. C. A. branches and other Youth Movements have been arranged. The Wandervogels have visited schools and universities and have performed at broadcasting stations in Europe, America, Japan and Shanghai.

In an interview yesterday, Hubert Giffels, a member of the party, described the trip since the departure from Cologne last year.

A swift journey was made through Holland and France to England. At Southampton they embarked on a North German Lloyd liner, and after landing at New York, commenced an extensive tour of the United States, visiting Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

At White House they were entertained by President Hoover, and their programme from a Washington broadcasting station was relayed to Germany.

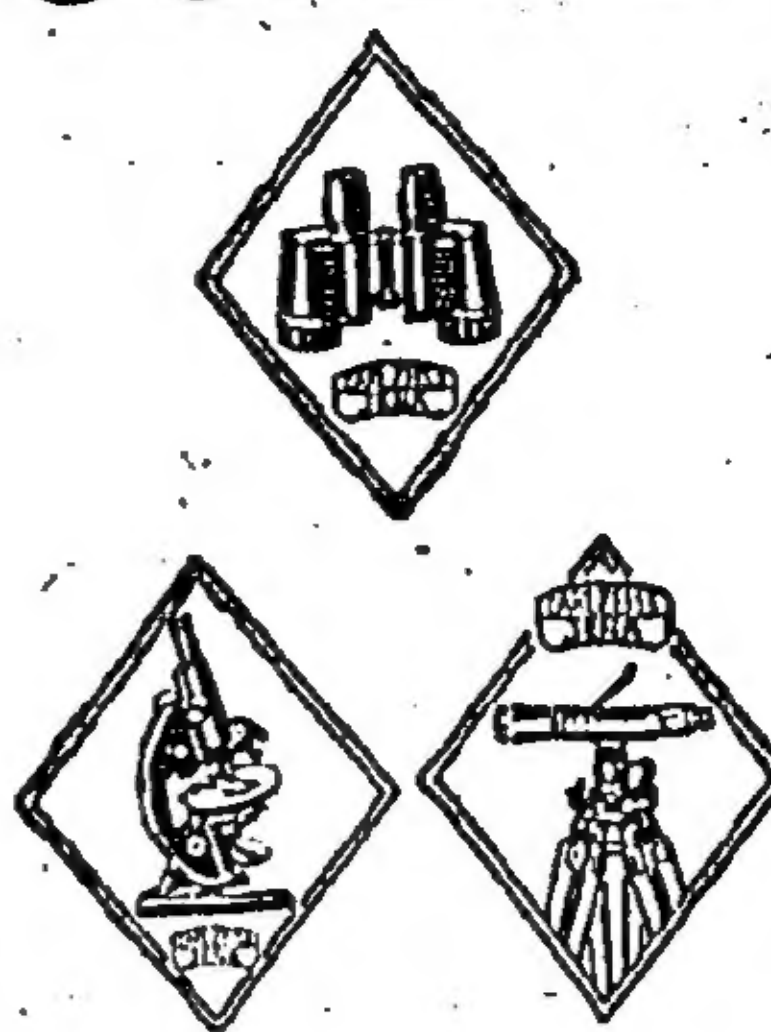

Accompanied by a contingent of Washington Boy Scouts, the Wandervogels visited the grave of America's Unknown Soldier and laid wreaths.

The trip was continued through Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee and Madison. A truck was then purchased and the travellers wandered about, viewing beauty spots and establishing connections with other Youth movements in the Middle West and West.

After a tour of California, they embarked on a ship bound for Japan. They visited Yokohama and Osaka, and crossing to Shanghai went north to Nanjing. Returning to Shanghai, they boarded the Sandviken for Hongkong.

The Wandervogels expect to remain in Hongkong about a week, after which they will proceed either to Manila or Saigon before touring the Dutch East Indies. The itinerary has not yet been definitely fixed.

PLANE SHOT DOWN

TROPHY CARRIED TO PEKING

WRECK PLACED ON EXHIBITION

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT)

(Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, April 27, 10.55 a.m.)

Peking, April 28.
Thousands of Chinese are gazing to-day at the first real war trophy brought to Peking—a Japanese bombing plane which was shot down in the Lan River region.

People are coming from all over the city to see the plane which has been placed on exhibition.

The machine is badly smashed and burned in places, but enough remains to indicate that it was a recent all-metal model built to carry eight bombs.

The theory is held that it was one of the machines purchased by patriotic groups in Japan.

Not the least interested of the spectators of the wreckage were a number of Japanese officers, who were observed to be making careful notes.

OMINOUS TROOP MOVEMENTS

SOVIET ASPERITIES IN C.E.R. DISPUTE

(SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH").

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, April 28, 2.07 p.m.)

LONDON, APR. 28.
THE BELIEF IS GAINING GROUND RAPIDLY THAT EVENTS IN THE FAR EAST ARE MOVING TOWARDS ANOTHER RUSSO-JAPANESE WAR.

SOVIET ASPERITIES OVER THE CHINESE EASTERN RAILWAY DISPUTE ARE DRAWING INCREASING ATTENTION TO THE MANCHURIAN COCKPIT AND JAPANESE TROOP MOVEMENTS, TOGETHER WITH REPORTS OF RED ARMY CONCENTRATIONS, ARE REGARDED AS OMINOUS PORTENTS.

A well-known cartoonist depicts a diminutive Japan in the boxing ring, having sent an enormous China over the ropes, smugly preparing to meet a huge "Sovietski" in the next round of the Heavyweight Championship of the Far East.

LUAN HO DIVERSION A MASK FOR MORE SERIOUS EVENTS?

A grave view of further complications in the Far Eastern situation, however, runs through the despatches from the Far East and from Moscow, which are given considerable prominence in the London newspapers, stressing "Soviet" alarm over an alleged "sinister plot" by the Harbin Japanese officials to seize the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The Chinese denial of the report that a Sino-Japanese peace treaty is impending is also interpreted as an indication of the threat of a Russo-Japanese War.

TENTATIVE MOVES.

Some diplomatic correspondents allude to tentative moves towards the reopening of negotiations, but the consensus of diplomatic opinion is inclined to the view that the Russo-Japanese differences have made the prospects of Sino-Japanese negotiations more remote, that China will not respond to any advances by Japan while there is a prospect of a valuable ally in the North.

The Daily Telegraph adumbrates the possibility that Japan is being impelled "in the name of Manchukuo" to undertake operations which may extend to the Maritime Provinces and East Siberia.

LUAN HO SIGNIFICANCE.

It is now believed, says the journal, that the recent Japanese movement south of the Great Wall, since followed by a withdrawal almost inexplicable except in the light of the North Manchuria peril, were merely a diversion to mask the importance of troop movements into North Manchuria.—Reuter.

SECRET TREATY STORY DENIED

Nanking, Apr. 28.
A spokesman of the Foreign Office has categorically denied the report in the Daily Express of an alleged secret peace treaty between China and Japan, purporting to give its terms.

He said that the report was so fantastic that it was beyond belief that anyone could give it serious consideration.

The charred ruins of the air-liner, City of Liverpool, which crashed in flames near Diamu, with a loss of fifteen lives. Photo shows a search for the bodies of the victims proceeding. Wild rumours that the machine was deliberately set on fire have been dispelled by the Salford inquest which ended yesterday with an open verdict.

(Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, April 27, 11.15 p.m.)

Moscow, April 27.
It is authoritatively reported in Chinese circles that the Sinkiang situation is not likely to assume international proportions as Sino-Soviet relations there are excellent in view of the mutual trade benefits.

It is believed that the revolt was stirred up by a number of governors of the Russian White Guards, whose intentions are unknown.

It is possibly a sequel to the two-year old tension between two sections of the population. The revolt is not likely to lead to hostilities as both sides are badly armed and scattered throughout the country, where there are few roads and no railways.—Reuter.

THE SILVER OUTLOOK AMERICAN SPECULATORS FORCING UP PRICE

American speculators are in full control of the silver market and the outlook for the future can only be described as obscure.

In London, the price of silver jumped to 20.8/16ths spot and 20% forward due to American buying with sellers scarce. After the official fixing, the tendency continued upward, and the Americans were reported to be offering from 20% to 21% figures which were regarded as well-informed circles as a definite indicator.

The Hongkong dollar rose to 1.47d. this morning, and the market was steady. There was little business done, however, the banks being disinclined to deal.

In New York, the market is very irregular and the price receded to 35.3/16ths cents. Futures are easier.

It is quite unsafe to predict the future. Should any political announcement be made or any development occur to cause nervousness, the descent would almost certainly be swift.

AIR LINER DISASTER

VOSS DEATH MYSTERY
INQUIRY

OPEN VERDICT

(Special to "Telegraph")

(Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, April 28, 8.15 a.m.)

London, April 27.
An open verdict was returned at the inquest at Salford on the body of Mr. Albert Voss, a Manchester dentist, one of the fifteen victims of the City of Liverpool disaster.

The Imperial Airways liner crashed in flames in Belgium on March 28 but Mr. Voss fell from the machine two miles before it crashed.

The inquest was held to inquire into two theories.

(1) that Mr. Voss took poison when he was in the machine.

(2) that he became mentally strained during the journey and set fire to the machine.

During the hearing it was suggested that there was ground for suspicion in the fact that the victim, although an undischarged bankrupt, made frequent expensive air journeys between England and the Continent, and it was alleged that he was a large buyer and taker of drugs.

His relatives denied all knowledge of such practice.

LACK OF EVIDENCE.

The jury expressed the opinion that the death of Mr. Voss was caused by injuries due to his falling from the air-liner, there being no conclusive evidence to show why or how he left the machine.

Mr. Goodfellow, representing the Imperial Airways, emphasized that the Company had never entertained the suggestion that there was a deliberate attempt to cause the lamentable disaster.

RELATIVES PERSECUTED.

The Coroner (Mr. A. Howard Flint) denounced the "mean, cowardly and unjustified" persecution of the relatives of the dead man by "some misguided people." He expressed the hope that it would now cease.—Reuter.

ANGLO-ARGENTINE TRADE

The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Runciman announced in the Commons to-day that an agreement on all points of principle had been reached with the Argentine Republic and a treaty was now being drafted which was expected to be signed within the next few days.—British Wireless.

ROOSEVELT INFLATION

FREE HAND BY SENATE

UNCERTAINTY OF EXTENT

Washington, Apr. 27.
President Roosevelt is now practically assured of the support of the Senate in his inflation schemes.

The attitude of the Senate to-day suggested that he will very shortly be invested with power to inflate the currency to a vast and unpredictable extent.

This unlimited power is causing concern in some powerful quarters. Critics predict that the uncertainty of the extent of the inflation will undermine public confidence in the currency and lead to a panic boom and then collapse.

OFFICIAL ATTITUDE.

Official circles, however, argue that President Roosevelt may be trusted to use his enormous powers wisely.

The trend of the Senate discussion was revealed when the clause empowering the President to reduce the gold content of the dollar up to fifty per cent. was adopted, this effectively quashing the attempt of the Conservatives of both parties, led by Senator Glass, to resist the grant of unprecedented powers.

MARKET CAUTIOUS.

The New York Stock Market is becoming cautious and speculators are leaving everything alone until the inflation programme becomes more clearly defined. Only 1,800,000 shares were done during the day and prices showed a small decline all round.—Reuter.

DEBT MORATORIUM QUESTION

"Officially" Expecting
June Payments

Washington, Apr. 27.

Although it is confirmed that President Roosevelt may be expected to propose to Congress a further moratorium on war debts until after the World Economic Conference, a declaration made at the White House shows that "officially" the President expects the June payments to be made.

The official spokesman emphasized that no agreement for the postponement of the payments has been made, but he indicated that some adjustments might be worked out for further conversations with the debtor countries.

It is significant, in this connexion, that the Speaker of the House, Mr. Rainey, declared to-day that although personally opposed to a moratorium, he would support any request for postponement made by the President.—Reuter.

HERRIOT PLEASED.

Washington, Apr. 27.
M. Herriot, the French delegate to Washington, is very pleased to-day with the results of his conversations with President Roosevelt. At their conclusion to-day, he declared that they had accomplished "enormous progress" in preparation for the World Economic Conference.—Reuter.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Tucked Away in Fashion.

Tucked shoes are something new and these tucked black pumps are chic with a black dressmaker suit with unusual sleeves and a skirt with kick pleats front and back. There are rows and rows of fine horizontal pin tucks covering the entire surface of the shoes, which are the new high cut pumps, with medium heel, that not only look smart but let a lady walk with ease. The blouse with the suit is of fine white crepe, also pin-tucked. And for real variety, there is a white jacket that buttons Ascot fashion with two pearl buttons, made of white kid.

EYEBROW LINE.

Must Correspond With Shape of Eyes.

In the matter of eyebrows, a good rule to follow is to see that they correspond with the shape of the eye at all times.

They should follow the line of the upper lids, should equal in distance from lid to brow the vertical measurements of the open eye.

The eye brow line is important. The brow that is too thin and too highly arched has a tendency to make the eye appear smaller.

Many brows are too heavy, some are too short, others too straight, and, alas, countless eyebrows go unremedied, ungroomed.

If your eyes are small, shorten the width of the arch of your eye.

brows in the circular manner worn by Constance Bennett, whose eyebrows are an example of the type that gets most out of rounded, regular features. Widened arches will make large eyes appear smaller.

Expression and character in a face are sacrificed if brows are too short at the ends.

A well-sharpened eyebrow pencil will remedy this by darkening the ends of the brows just a little, adding a faint line to give additional length—a line which, by the way, should have an upward trend.

Brows that are too straight will make lustrous melancholy to any face. Too highly arched brows will give a grotesquely surprised look. Brows that are too straight will make lustrous eyes bendy. Heavy, thick brows will ruin a lovely face, the too thin line will do the same to a strong one.

And another good rule to follow: The distance between every woman's brows should tally with the width of her eye.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

By Alicia Hart.

The average person looks at eyes first of all, when meeting a new person.

But artists tell us that they look at mouths. Eyes can assume an expression of interest, alertness, happiness. But mouths are themselves, the sum total of the inner attitude of a man or woman.

That is why your eyes may be tired and yet you may have an indefinite appealing quality of charm just because your mouth has a gentleness, a sweetness, a seriousness of expression that makes folks realize a certain beauty that attracts.

Too many women confuse charm with beautiful features. Too many girls have the ideal of being beautiful and, failing to create a furor, become discontented or envious of someone who has succeeded.

The past few years have made smartness and chic almost synonymous with beauty. Those are possibilities for many women who are downright homely.

However, it seems to me too few women cultivate charm. Charm is a quality of character that grows as the years creep on, deepens with experience, is richer through maturity.

No utterly self-centered, selfish person can have real, universal charm. It presupposes an interest in others, a consideration of them, a warmth and a generosity that carries a person outside herself.

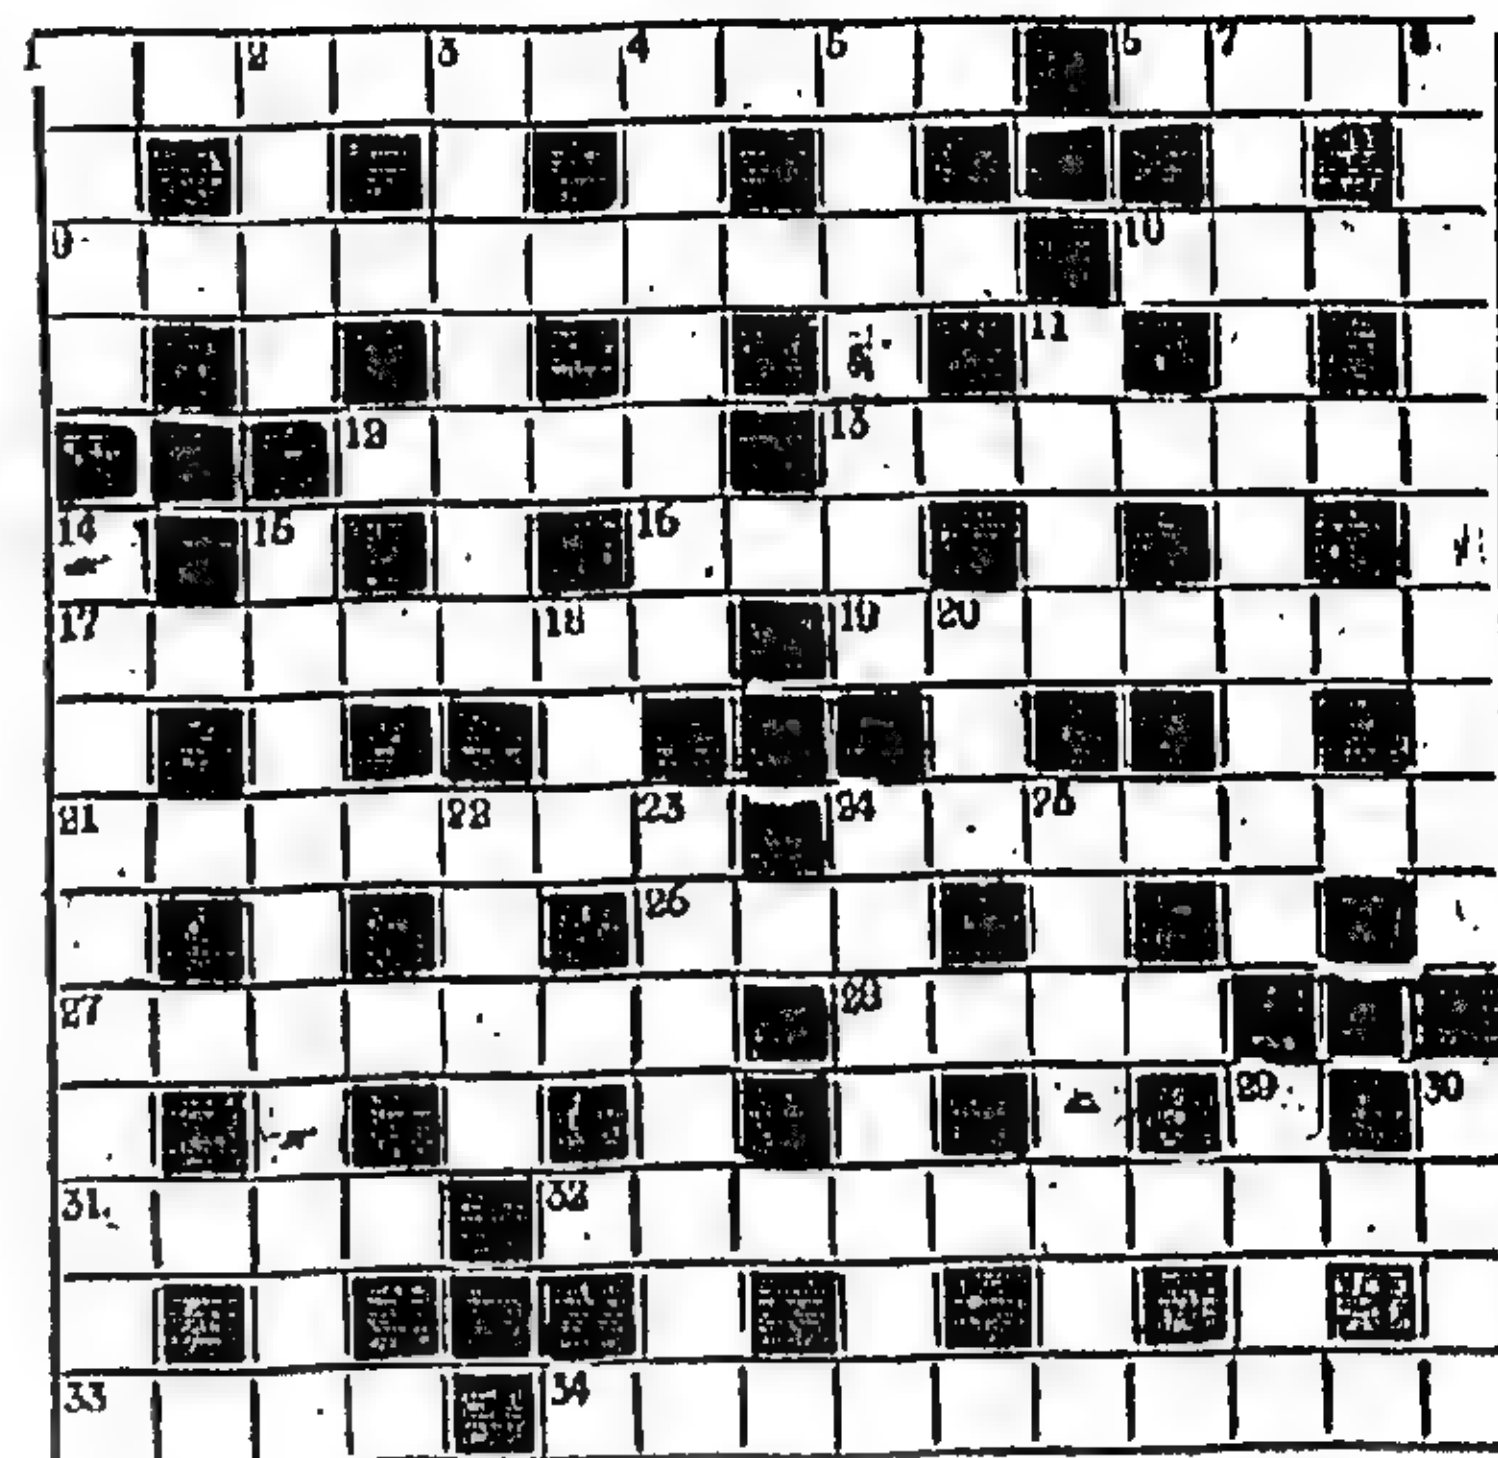

Mouths reveal these qualities far more than eyes do. That is why you should watch your mouth. You can't, just by will-power, make your mouth expressive. You must develop a frame of mind that does the trick. Right now, to be placid, happy, optimistic is hard. But it can be done!

Start mornings to try to pick out the things for which you should be happy. Try to see the good in those about you. Try to appreciate your good health, your job, your associates. During the day stick to your resolve to be considerate, give others a lift. The last thing at night, count your blessings, go to sleep happy! You will be surprised how your mouth's expression responds to your mood and you will be delighted how your frame of mind shows in your face. That is a first step to charm.

This is Lanvin's "choir boy" collarette consisting of rows of flat ruffles of crepe de chine.

LOVE or MONEY?

BY H. W. CORLEY

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a wall street law office, is surprised when her child, Steve, returns to New York after three years' mysterious absence. Mona contributes largely to the support of her mother, invalid father, sister, KITTY, and never-to-well brother, BUD.

Steve has been in South America where, largely by chance, he has become associated with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent, who owns a diamond mine. Together they have made the mine, believed worthless, pay handsomely. Steve owns a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru."

LOTUS CARD, fashion model, John Mona, Barry and Steve on several dinner and dancing engagements. Mona's brother, Bud, is under obligations to RICK HARKINS, night club proprietor and gambler, who plots to steal the huge diamond.

Steve tells Mona and Little that the diamond is hidden in his apartment. The four young people are there when Bud, following Harkins' orders, telephones that his mother is ill. He comes to take Mona home. The girls depart. Steve suspects trickery and he and Barry hide. Presently someone enters the apartment. It is Bud. He is forced to confess he has come to steal the diamond. Steve, knowing the gambler may kill the boy for his failure, decides to send him to South America. They drive to Boston to put Bud on a boat.

CHAPTER XV

Mona's voice trembled. "But I don't know what you mean, Steve!" she said. "Why did you say I won't see Bud for a long while? What's happened? Where are you?"

She sat at her desk in the downtown town law office. Steve's voice came to her over the telephone.

"I'm talking over long distance," he reassured her. "Bud is with me and he's okay. I'll explain it all when I see you. Let me meet you tonight, will you?"

"Where are you?" Mona asked. Then, "Yes, I'll meet you at five."

She put down the telephone in bewilderment. Steve in Boston and Bud with him! What could it mean. She had left Steve last night about to go to his club with Barry. Bud had taken Little home and had not returned. Bud and Steve could hardly be called close friends. "Wise guy," was Bud's withering comment when Steve's name was mentioned.

At five o'clock Mona found Steve on the curb in his roadster. She listened carefully while he explained. Without sparing her Steve sketched the previous night's happenings. Bud's affiliation with the gang which was after the Empress, his return to Steve's apartment, his reception and finally the drive to Boston were all described.

"Bud is out of their way by this time," Steve said, eyeing his wrist watch. "Four hours out at sea."

"But won't they suspect?" Steve shook his head. "I don't think so. You see, even if they think we helped him get away, which I doubt, they won't think of the Canadian boat. We're shipping our machinery via the Miranda. They might think we'd smuggled Bud aboard."

"The machinery didn't go on the Lady Bradford?"

"English boats—or Canadian, either—can't pick up American freight."

For a moment Mona was silent. "Then this means that beside rescuing Bud from the gang, you've risked your life?"

"I have none of them," Steve interrupted. "You have only one brother."

"And you paid Bud's fare to South America. We owe you all that!"

"You owe me nothing. The boy is going down there on a job. He's going to make good at it. Just being free from this crowd will be a godsend." Steve put his hand over Mona's tiny gloved one and looked at her. "You mustn't blame Bud too much. There are a dozen ways kids get caught in these things. Promise of big money, assurance they won't be asked to break the law, bluffs, and then, too late, the realization that things have gone so far there's no road back. I found one. Barry gave it to me. It was up to me to find a way out for Bud."

"The gang will shoot you if they find it out, Steve?"

"He nodded in nonchalant agreement. "Yes, but the newspapers with the story about the sale of the Empress will give them such a pain they'll forget Bud ever lived. You'll see!"

Mona left him and climbed the stairs to the apartment in a mixture of moods. Steve had made her understand the importance of secrecy concerning Bud's whereabouts.

Ma had finished supper and washed the dishes. She said Mona could find a bite in the ice box.

Ma sat under the light in the tiny parlour, a darning basket in her lap, listening to the dance orchestra from the Palm Gardens playing over the radio.

At her feet, in a clothes basket, lay the Donahue baby. His parents were attending the Elks' Ball and had entrusted the infant to Ma.

"I'll get myself something," Mother," Mona insisted after a look at Sonny, flushed and cozy in his improvised crib. "I'm not very hungry."

"I thought you might be eating with Steve. You often do when you are late this way," her mother remarked with eyes carefully watching Mona's reaction to this observation.

The girl sat down and removed her hat. She turned to place it on a chair.

"Steve asked me," she said. "Oh, I'm so tired. So many worries!"

"I'll fix you up, Min. There, child, sit still! I'll get your supper in no time. A cup of tea will do you good."

Drinking the tea a few minutes later, Mona knew that she would have to broach the subject of Bud.

"I was saying it for Bud," she announced. "Eat it, Min. I made it with nuts the way you like it."

"I must tell her," Mona thought, watching her mother settle in her chair again and thrust her hand into a heavy gray sock.

"Sure Bud's in some scrape. I'll be bound," Ma confided surprisingly.

"The telephone was ringing half the day asking was he around," she sighed. "I worry my heart out over him and that's the truth. I wish he was good like you, Minnie."

"He—he brought in money regularly, didn't he?" asked Mona cautiously. If he had not done that this plan of Steve's would pave the way, perhaps, to lessen motherly anxiety at Bud's departure.

"He did not!" Ma answered promptly. "Oh sure, bring it in he would and borrow it out again. I hardly hold it in the hand."

"He'll straighten out," said Mona confidently. "He's young."

"Young! He's old enough to be a better lad, surely."

"Mother," Mona began, "what would you say if I told you that Steve had taken a hand with Bud?"

Then, without dwelling too much on the fact of Bud's connexion with the gang, without mentioning the famous diamond, Mona told her mother of Steve's interest in the boy.

Steve had found him a job, "down south," she said. Half of Bud's pay would be sent each week to the family. Steve had promised the boy would make a man of Bud.

"Steve gets my boy a job? His interest, I'm thinking, is in you, Min, not Bud."

Mona smiled. The task of the telling had been simpler than she had dared hope. Ma seemed undisturbed at the departure of her son.

"He's been such a worry to me, Min, I do declare," Ma said presently, as if in answer to her daughter's thoughts. "I never liked to tell you. Maybe this job will be the making of him!"

"But," Mona reminded her, "we're not to tell anyone—anyone, Mother—where he is. We aren't even to say 'down south.' Just say he's out of town or in the country."

Busy plying her needle through a sock which Bud would never wear, Mrs. Moran sighed. She was not to be diverted from her original line of thinking.

"I'd like to see you married to some good man, Min," she announced. "Though how we'd get along without you, God knows!"

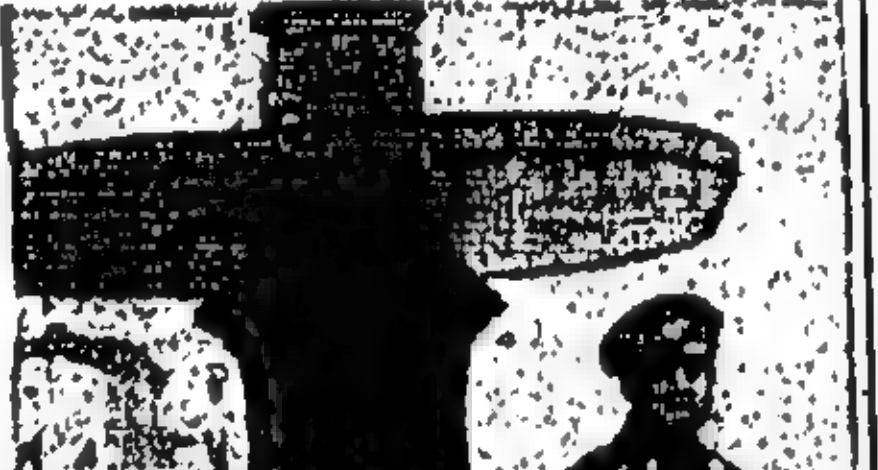

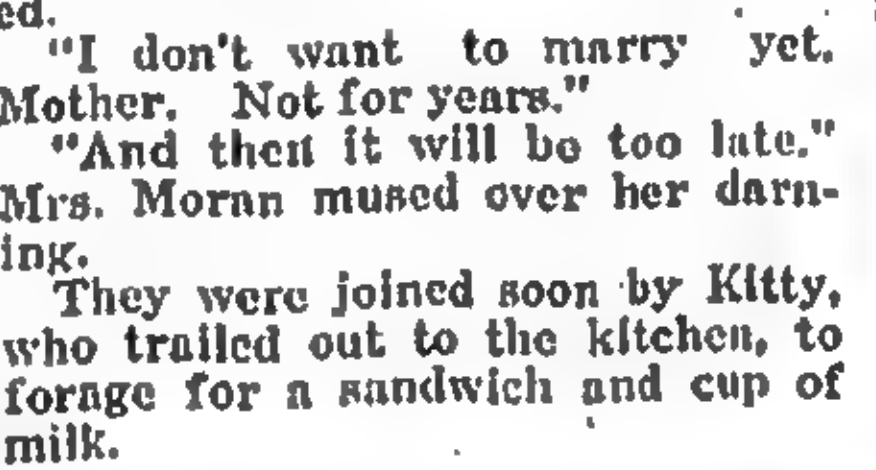

"That's what you said about Alice," remarked Mona. "She's no better off. She's not as well off as she was when she was single."

"Jim Halliday's a good man," Ma replied conscientiously. Never would she allow anyone to criticize Alice's husband. He's good, but the luck isn't with him," she repeated.

"I don't want to marry yet, Mother. Not for years."

"And then it will be too late," Mrs. Moran mused over her darning.

They were joined soon by Kitty, who trailed out to the kitchen, to forage for a sandwich and cup of milk.

Dear Sir,

The economic depression and the general unsettled state of the world is really evolutionary and our greatest actual enemy to-day is the feeling of fear engendered by existing conditions. Nations fear each other; individuals fear financial reverses, loss of employment, etc., and this feeling of apprehension is the grimmest spectre that has ever stalked abroad. If it can be laid low one of the most potent contributors to unrest will disappear. Cast away fear and a surprising physical and mental immunity will be gained from the ills to which we are heir.

There need be no fear of mechanical breakdown if you use Castrol motor oil in your Car. The Mollisons, Captain Malcolm Campbell, Kaye Don and hosts of other record-breaking Aviators and Motorists who took their lives in their hands owe their success largely to the fact that they chose the best available weapons in their respective fights and reduced fear to a fraction as Castrol reduces friction.

Castrol is sold by the British Imperial gallon which is 20% more than the American or wine gallon and it is obtainable at all the leading garages but if you have any trouble in getting supplies please give us a ring (21746) and we will give immediate attention to your requirements.

Wendy Barrie Is Delightful in "Wedding Rehearsal"

GEORGE RAFT AND HOLLYWOOD: PUBLICITY AGENTS HAVE A QUIET JEST

HONGKONG is thronging to see Wendy Barrie in Wedding Rehearsal. They want to see the Colony's first product for the British screen. I joined the expectant crowds on Wednesday and found Wendy Barrie—yes good, very good. A director's capture for the English studios (I only hope they will go the right way about keeping her), and a charming actress of whom Hongkong can well be proud and satisfied. But beyond Wendy Barrie there is something about Wedding Rehearsal which cannot fail to capture the imagination. It has, I think, the widest appeal of any British film seen in Hongkong for a year. It gives us a new introduction to the development of the English producers' conception of modern cinematic technique. Much of it is mimicry, but it is so excellently done that at the time one is inclined to believe that it is original in idea and presentation.

ALEXANDER Korda, who directed Wedding Rehearsal has not been afraid to follow the lines of Ernst Lubitsch in emphasizing the satirical passages of the picture. Thus in the opening, when we are shown a whole front page of a London "daily" bearing the news of imminent war and a terrible earthquake thrown out for a report of a Society wedding, the satirical gesture is heightened by the pounding of the printing presses with a chorus of voices maintaining tempo and rhythm. Again Korda uses his imagination cleverly to portray a psychological study of the reactions of various people to society wedding. In it he blends an attractive use of the camera and a quick appreciation of wit when the single explosive "Blat" is carried round the world through a series of characters finally resting in Hyde Park, where a typical "Red" orator is himself blasting its real direction—its drooliness is at the idle rich for their society wedding. These touches, which together with good cutting which accelerates and retards the tempo in keeping with the action, all contribute to a splendid production.

PLUS these qualities the picture enjoys a cast which is probably second to none in British screen today. George Grossmith (remember him in Service for Ladies) as His Majesty travelling incognito, has the facility of making a part fit him, in distinct contrast to an actor of the type of Maurice Chevalier who has to suit himself to the part, or preferably has to have his character made for him. It is almost inconceivable that anybody else could have taken Roland Young's part. None of his American productions surpass his delightful work in Wedding Rehearsal. Whatever expectations Hongkong had about Wendy Barrie must be completely realised by her clever characterization. Admittedly it does not call for any deep emotional acting, but so convincingly that I am fully prepared to believe that she would prove equally as capable in a heavier role.

BURGLARY CASE TWO MEN GAOLED

Tang Lam and Chan Fuk were charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with breaking and entering No. 125, Thompson Road, and stealing jewellery valued at $500. Chan Wing-so, a woman, and Tang Yung, were charged with receiving stolen property.

The first three admitted the charges, but the fourth pleaded not guilty. Detective Sergeant Fitches accepted the plea. Fourth defendant was a brother of the first and it was quite possible he did not know the things had been stolen. Witness also thought third defendant was innocent in this respect. Mr. Schofield bound third defendant over in a surety of $150 to be of good behaviour for one year. The first and second defendants were ordered to pay $100 each to the complainant for the property not recovered, or to go to prison for two months in default, and they were further sentenced to two months' imprisonment on the robbery charge, the sentences to run consecutively.

OPIUM RAIDS ANOTHER DIVAN DISCOVERED

A Chinese woman, described as a regular dealer, in opium, was fined $240 or two months' gaol, by Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning.

A divan keeper, of 19 Jubilee Street, was fined $100 or six weeks, and a further penalty of $25 or 14 days was imposed for the possession of one mace of opium. Revenue Officer W. Ward said that the divan had been raided quite frequently.

Out for Vengeance

George Raft and Nancy Carroll, who play opposite each other in "Under-Cover Man", now showing at the Queen's.

HOLLYWOOD can be very droll! But at the moment I am puzzled as to its real direction—its drooliness is at the idle rich for their society wedding. These touches, which together with good cutting which accelerates and retards the tempo in keeping with the action, all contribute to a splendid production.

ALL of which leads me up to a few lines on Raft's present appearance at the Queen's Theatre in Under-Cover Man. Of its type this is a fair film. If you like rapid action, crook Wall Street men who talk through the side of their mouths, and plaster their conversation with underworld idioms, then you will assuredly enjoy this picture. And if there was anything needed to convince me that the only one real character for Raft to portray is that of either an active or a reformed crook, then Under-Cover Man supplies the deficiency. To say that Raft always looks his part is not a reflection on him. It is an acknowledgment that Hollywood always succeeds in selecting its types. Raft is an avenging crook in this picture, and therefore, of necessity a reformed crook. He handles his part with consummate skill, and surrounded as he is by an array of artists such as Lew Cody, Roscoe Karns, David Landau and Nancy Carroll, experiences no difficulty in convincing the audience that Under-Cover Man is a good film. Seeing that it is pegged on a worn out theme, this is no small achievement.

The Front Page, which comes to the King's Theatre on Sunday was produced at a time when the cycle on newspaper films was about half-way through. It followed pictures such as Gentlemen of the Press and Young Man of Manhattan, and those who saw either, or both, of these last mentioned pictures, will be able to form their own conclusions about the different treatment accorded The Front Page. But this apart, the chief interest of the film to the average cinema-goer is the starring of Adolphe Menjou as the editor of the paper around which the story is woven. It is pretty certain that numbers of Menjou admirers will declare this is his finest screen performance; others will go to the opposite extreme. If anything I lean towards the latter view, for what Menjou doesn't put into the performance himself, Lewis Milestone, the director, who you will remember handled "All Quiet on the Western Front" does. It is robust direction on the part of Milestone, but it has its phrases of delicate light and shade, and although never reaching anything like the genius of "All Quiet" (due mostly to the inferior material in story and theme), is completely adequate.

FROM time to time I have made fairly full references to the institution and progress of the British Film Institute, and now further information concerning this body, whose object it is to put the Home-side film industry "on the map," is to hand. Latest developments show that the Institute will be the central authority on all cultural and educational films made in England. It will be administered by nine "Governors" who will select their own Chairman. The Governors will be the nominees, in the ratio of three each, of the film industry, of the unofficial commission on whose report the Institute was brought into being, and of the public. The public nominees will be chosen by the trade and the commission.

Representatives who have agreed to serve are: For the trade: Messrs. C. M. Woolf, Sam Eckman, Jr., and Thomas Ormiston, M.P. For the commission: Sir Charles Cleland, Mr. A. C. Cameron, and Mr. R. S. Lambert. There will be a meeting shortly to choose a Chairman. Representatives of the "public" also will be agreed upon.

Tala Birell, as she appears in "Nagana", the Universal Jungle thriller which starts a run at the Central Theatre to day.

THE idea of a Film Institute was first suggested by the report of an unofficial commission on educational and cultural films, of which Mr. Cameron was a joint secretary. Sir Benjamin Gott, formerly Director of Education for Middlesex, and who died a few weeks ago, was Chairman. This report was adopted by the Government, and funds derived from the Sunday opening of cinemas were allocated to a central cinematograph fund to be administered by the Privy Council.

The representatives of the trade were chosen from the main groups. Mr. C. M. Woolf, who is the joint managing director of the Gaumont-British Corporation, was nominated, by the Federation of British Industries; Mr. Sam Eckman, Jr., by the Kinematograph Renters' Society, and Mr. Thomas Ormiston by the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association.

Mr. Sam Eckman is the present President of the K.R.S., a position he has held for the past two years. He is head of the great American firm of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in this country. He is an American citizen. Sir Charles Cleland is the Director of Education at Glasgow. Mr. A. C. Cameron, who was one of the prime movers and joint secretary of the unofficial commission, is Director of Education at Oxford, and Mr. R. S. Lambert, also intimately connected with the commission, is the editor of the B.B.C. publication "The Listener."

 "Faithless" Queen's
 "Nagana" Central
 "Speak Easily" Star
 "Crock" World
 "Blonde Venus" .. Majestic

Does this mean the further extension of "Radioocracy"? Does it mean that the B.B.C. seek to control all films in this country, and, through television, control all means of entertainment?

When the six selected Governors meet, they will choose the representatives of the "public." Many names of prominent persons have been put forward. Miss Isabel MacDonald's name has been mentioned, and among others are Lord Lee of Farnham, who is actively connected with the Gaumont-British Corporation, and who has just returned from Hollywood; Lord Eustace Percy, Sir Cecil Levita, of the L.C.C., Lady Astor, Vice-countess Snowden, lately a B.B.C. Governor, Lady Simon, a member of the Licensing Commission, Lord Elgin, and Colonel John Buchan, who was one of the expected nominees of the commission.

ONE question which will be asked is as to what "public" these prominent people represent. A consideration which the selected Governors might bear in mind is the selection of the newly appointed free and independent members of the British Board of Film Censors, who has shown that he is actively in touch with public opinion in films.

It has been suggested that the position of secretary of the Institute will be held jointly by a representative of the film industry and a nominee of the commission. The probable selection will be Mr. Reginald V. Crew for the film industry, and Mr. J. W. Brown, who is secretary of the British Institute of Adult Education.

In this work he is closely connected with the B.B.C.

WAR DEBTS.

It is now crystal clear that no serious efforts to secure a settlement of the war debts question is contemplated by the British or American Government prior to the meeting of the World Economic Conference. As the key to the whole world-complex, political and economic, it has naturally taken up a considerable amount of the time occupied in the Roosevelt-MacDonald conversations. But the brief communique issued on the subject signified abandonment of the negotiations contemplated. It is rather a pity. The prolonged uncertainty cannot be relieved. The main impediment to enterprise both in Great Britain and on the Continent remains to be overcome. President Roosevelt has, therefore, chosen the next best thing, a moratorium until after the meeting of the Economic Conference. In this matter, President Roosevelt's difficulties with Congress are still extreme although Mr. Rainey probably reflects a wider attitude when he says that, although hostile to the moratorium, he will support any request made by the President. The corresponding difficulties of British statesmen are in certain respects, insuperable. The real position of Great Britain is seldom stated with simplicity. It is a reasonable attitude—one that human nature in the same predicament would take up in any land. The word is "equality." Under the heaviest terms Britain tried hardest to pay. By comparison with other nations she has been conspicuously penalised. No Government in Great Britain could live if it accepted the proposition that Britain should become a universal scapegoat; that we should be the only nation bound to international payments for the World War. If those payments are to continue in any shape, the sacrifices will have to be justly spread amongst all the nations concerned. Germany will have to do her part. But the attempt to revive reparations in any shape or form would be like throwing a monkey-wrench into the new mechanism for advancing recovery and under-planning peace. This is the crux. It must be faced with supreme good sense. Otherwise every project of world-cooperation will be thrown far back. The last state would be worse than the first. The results of the Economic Conference would be harmful rather than null. That would not be the end of the failure.

Weighty Water

Heavy water has been discovered. A distinguished California chemist has announced that "isotopes" have got into the hydrogen of ordinary H₂O in some places and raised the combined weight 10 per cent. The discovery may upset the existing international standard of weights and measures. When, where and how the isotopes inserted themselves in the water, reports do not clearly explain, but it is sufficient for the layman that the "critters" are there. An isotope is defined as a new class of atom that is twice as heavy as the ordinary breed associated with the chief element of water. The chemists have been so busy trying to keep the neutrons and electrons apart and the physicists so intent upon chasing the cosmic ray to its lair that the isotopes have been overlooked. It is probable that they slipped into the water at about the same time that one of them slipped into the addenda of the latest edition of Mr. Webster's dictionary. In all probability they will make the main section in the next issue. Meanwhile the layman is edified with the definition that an isotope is "one of two or more elements occupying the same position in the periodic table, practically identical in chemical behaviour and distinguishable only by radioactive transformations and small differences in atomic weight." Chemists say that if too many isotopes get into the water it will have a greater density than the water of Great Salt Lake. Housekeepers will meet soon to protest any prospective advent of heavier water. They declare that a bucketful of ordinary water is heavy enough for them to lug around the kitchen. But promoters of watered stock are not interested. Even a generous supply of isotopes would not float their commodity just now.

Bullfights in the Movies

Bullfights are utterly repugnant to most people outside of Spain. Motion pictures depicting them have no place in their concept of decent entertainment. An announcement that Hollywood was producing such a film has roused widespread, indignant protest. The lame excuse proffered that the bullfight would not be filmed in the United States, which of course the law would not permit anyway—does not hold water. As the National Humane Review pertinently says, "If a bullfight were to be filmed there would have to be a bullfight, and it would make no difference to the bulls and the horses whether the fight took place in California, Mexico or Spain." Can it be that the saturation point for cheap gangster pictures having been reached, the motion picture industry is casting around for new thrills for jaded appetites? And that the immature and adolescent, surfeited with the false gallantry of the gunman and his tawdry pleasures, are now to be exposed to the realistic butchery of the bull arena camouflaged with the gaudy accoutrements of a prancing toreador? In Spain the bullfight is yielding to the wholesome activities of athletics such as football, tennis and golf. Should it be permitted in the United States to turn back the clock? Putting worn-out horses to cruel torture and slaughtering bulls to provide "amusement" can have no place in the codes of Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and all kindred associations. And surely parents everywhere will place such films on the forbidden list. If movie producers and distributors have their ears to the ground, they will hear the unmistakable "No" to all such proposals.

DON'T FOLLOW IN FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS

Advice to the Younger Generation—

By MAY EDGINTON

Hail Youth! Every man and woman of forty and over envies you. Strangely enough, the young also envy the man and woman of forty—though not over forty. They envy them their privileges, their power, and their "freedom." But this envy is as nothing to the other envy; the young outgrow it as they outgrow their clothes. The other envy, once felt, endures. Here is the year 1933, and a crisis of the world. What a good time in which to be young! What a weary time in which to be old! It is a good time in which to be young because soon the world will be teeming with amazing opportunities; boys now making elementary tests in school laboratories will startle the world with immense new discoveries for manufacturing, new discoveries for medicine, for motive power, new discoveries—let us face it—for new deaths in war, as well as for new glories in peace.

YOUTH NOT UNMANNERLY.

Every girl now growing up can be stronger, more beautiful, more knowledgeable than the women before her.

It is usual for mature people to keep their envy secret. I have never been silent about mine. Contrary to general opinion, as imparted to me, I find the young extraordinarily tactful, courteous and good-tempered; as in fact the youth of every age has always had to be—or suffer for it. The grudgings and grumbling, the tantrums and the rages, usually come from elderly people who, if all their tales of their excellent upbringing could be believed, should be, in middle age, perfect examples to all those less experienced. For its tolerance towards such disagreeable folk, I admire youth with an almost untempered admiration.

The young of to-day furnish a topic that I happen to discuss frequently with various paterfamilias, all of whom unwittingly display to me, much magnified, the very faults they complain of in their sons. There is a sore subject called heredity upon which we do not touch.

The young are always with us as a bone of contention, and as it was in the beginning so it is now; and so it always will be, unless the generation now growing up become the perfect parents, seeing the mote in their own eyes before condemning the mote in the eye of the boy or the girl.

KEEN ON REALITIES.

Curiosity is not the least of my emotions when I contemplate the young. It seems to me that they have adopted for themselves a new form of education that might well make the schoolmaster, and his natural enemy the parent, think a little. For instance, my own son failed to gain a school certificate on leaving his public school because he is hopeless at mathematics. But for some years he has read the financial column of the newspapers and will speak to me with acute interest and shrewd knowledge of the markets.

It may be that the Tudor period bore him by comparison with the events of his own day; he may be uncertain about the Normans; but from abroad he writes to me keenly about the current international crises, and rejoices in or bemoans the result of the most remote by-election in Great Britain.

I suggest, therefore, that the youth of to-day is more interested in plunging into current history than the pageant of the past, however picturesque.

One of the most important things to be taught in any school, to my mind, would be the history of labour, from the day of the sort until now; another is the history of politics, national and international; and, finally, the history of trade.

FATUOUS ELDERS.

But the Norman Conquest, the Wars of the Roses, the indigentions of certain Kings... Youth finds so much there that is irrelevant to the sharpshooting needs of immediate life, to the torment of to-day's affairs, that over comparatively dusty studies it is apt to be lethargic.

One notices youth, then, picking its way, accepting this and rejecting that, till: "You've got a shocking bad report, boy. You're an idle young dog." Gilded youth still shows fatuous in its gaieties upon occasion, but never so fatuous as were our forefathers, with their gaming clubs, their drinking bouts, their "wild oats," and the number of their regulation fair ladies.

AUGURY FOR FUTURE.

There is an asceticism of habit abroad to-day that is a very fine augury for the future. The best boys are self-disciplined to an extent few of their fathers ever knew. Perhaps the best girls are too.

It does not dismay me at all to hear that any of my young friends has possessed himself, with pride, of an old car, and has been seen with a damsel at a "road house." Youth moves with the times and would soon be left behind if it did not.

There is practically no boy and no girl who should follow a parent's example.

I would give youth all possible freedom. To-day that freedom would be spent mostly in the open air. The "temptations" that the elders know and, later, feared would now be dull, trite, foolish. Many of them exist no more.

There is another change of mind—I will not say "heart"—which I notice in these youngsters.

POVERTY UNREVERED.

In my young days a prunes-and-prisms governess could tell me the tale of the nice Emperor who on a certain day of the year used to wash the sore feet of the beggars. I admired this good man. But if I told the tale to a child now he would—of reasoning age at all—probably ask: "Why were there beggars? Why did he only wash their sore feet? Why didn't he look after his kingdom better?"

The young to-day have a pity for poverty—no reverence. They may admire the giving of alms, but will first deplore the necessity. Mere gestures are nothing to them; they translate the formula and analyse the gesture. In their souls they have abolished the precedent; though they may not let us know it, because they are always afraid of us.

And we are always afraid of them.

The Very Idea! NATURE'S HAIR RESTORER

By Eddie Kelly, Gland Expert.

"HOT news for sheep," said Professor Kelly. It has been found after long experiment that the removal of the pineal gland from sheep vastly increases the growth of wool, says an Australian magazine.

"So intricate and delicate is the operation," continues the journal, "that the discovery can be of no commercial value."

So much for science. Excited sheep may now resume their seats, until we are finished. The remarkable effect of similar experiments on human beings has, up till now, not been disclosed.

That's why, discarding all professional niceties, we are going to disclose them.

The case of Aspen Parker will be called to mind by all interested in this gland treatment. He had his pineal gland removed. The results exceeded all expectations.

His trousers grew to enormous proportions. He was saved from death by suffocation by the adequate and all-round operation, his braces preventing his trousers from growing up over his face. His boots grew to such an extent that he was able to go for long walks in them until he caught up with his toe caps.

He was found, starved to death, in the lining of his hat, three weeks after the conclusion of the experiment.

Then there was Annie MacAnna, a native of Western Abyssinia, who had her face lifted to such an extent that the only way she could present a decent facial complexion to the world was to rough her kneecaps. Not that this has anything to do with glands.

The foregoing is merely mentioned in order to point out how dangerous it is for unqualified practitioners to dabble in new sciences.

One of the most harrowing instances of this was Mr. X, who had part of his Dollar glands removed.

According to his depositions, his hotel chits became out of all proportions, and his working expenses seemed to get bigger. At the same time his circle of acquaintances grew smaller, the shroffs grew nastier, and his socks shrank, shrank, and shrank.

He died of applied economics, a martyr to science, his last words being: "Ain't it gland to be bloomin' well dead?"

Fortunately, we still have all our glands intact.

WE APOLOGISE.

Dear Edward Kelly—I don't believe all the stories you tell about your "headache" are true. If they are, they're not a true reflex of married life.

I am a married man, but I have never spoken harshly to my wife or called her names—except "Duckywuck" or "Wooshywoosh," or something like that.

My wife has never in her married life thrown a saucepan or anything like that at me. The worst she has ever called me is "Naught-vaughy".

I have never kept back a cent from her since we were married. Neither have I told her a lie, or come home to find her out playing bridge on the Peak.

I sincerely hope you will print this in fairness to those people who might get a wrong idea of marriage from reading your column. Marriage is wonderful. I know. I've been married eight days and one hour.—Yours sincerely, MACK.

FACE THE FACTS.

"The text-book, 'Dials and How to Decipher Them,' by Professor Kelly (our copy from Dodder and Company) is crowded with useful notes for those with the courage to examine their own faces. Some typical extracts:—

"Ears.—A thick ear indicates a quarrelsome disposition; an ear presenting a gnarled or bitten appearance shows that the owner is still earning money; a ploughed or gravel-worn surface shows that he gets drunk and comes home on it. An exceptionally long ear indicates political aptitude; if the ear is missing altogether, it denotes that he is married."

"Nose.—Colour (if possible in conjunction with breath) is the best guide here. A reliable scale is:—Rose—pink, beer; vermilion, beer and gin; lobster, vodka; maroon, O.P. rum. In the case of maiden ladies, omit these deductions and refer with tact to the weather. A much-enlarged nose shows a talkative—fend who has tried to imitate Hollywood language."

"Eyes.—If badly crossed, in the effort to see two ways at once, they indicate a pedestrian. Eyes protruding like gooseberries denote a subject who has received his hotel account or alternatively a frequenter of the bench at Repulse Bay."

"Days like this I always feel the call of nature. Let's see if there is a good jungle movie on."

Washington and St. Louis managed to nose out Boston and Cleveland respectively, whereas Chicago indulged in a riot of runs at the expense of Detroit.

Smart pitching by Beck saw Boston blanked out by Brooklyn in the National League clash.

CHESTER LOSE CHANCE

SMALL HOPE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

London, Apr. 27. Chester lost practically all hopes of winning the championship of the Northern Section of the Third Division to-day, when, visiting Doncaster, they were held to a draw, both teams scoring once.

Chester can now only obtain a maximum total of 66 points, and as Hull, with three games outstanding, have 55, and Wrexham, with three additional matches to play, have 53 points, the championship contest will rest between these two.

Darlington are pretty well assured of the "wooden spoon" since they lost by three clear goals to Carlisle. The three leading positions in the table are occupied as follows:

	P.	W.	D.	L.	F.	A.	Pts.
Hull	39	24	7	8	93	41	55
Wrexham	39	22	8	9	103	50	53

IMPERIAL ART TREASURES

NEW CONSIGNMENT IN SHANGHAI

(Special to "Telegraph")

(Telegraph, Copyright. Telegraphic News Agency, Ordinance, 1931. Received, April 28, 1933.)

Shanghai, April 28. The fourth, as well as the largest, consignment of art treasures from the Imperial Palace at Peking has arrived.

It is comprised altogether of 6,273 cases, and the bulk of the consignment is composed of bronze ware, porcelain, literature and instruments.—Reuter.

COMMON LAW

STEALING BY FINDING SENTENCE

Charges of stealing and receiving a coat were brought against an unemployed Chinese before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning. Defendant stated he picked the article up in Sai Street, and his Worship accepted the plea as one of guilty, to larceny by finding.

His Worship—What is the section for larceny by finding? Sergeant Reidy—it is common law, your Worship.

His Worship—One month's hard labour.

TRAFFIC OFFENCES

Numerous Cases This Morning

Four summonses against local motorists for driving vehicles without front lights burning, were heard by Mr. Schofield in the Central Police Court this morning. Mr. A. E. Simmons, of the Far East Aviation Co., Ltd., and Mr. F. Barretto, of 35, Sharp Street, were fined $8 and $5, respectively. Both were stopped in Garden Road on April 12. The first defendant was also accused of not having his rear number plate illuminated. Fines of $5 each were imposed on the Chinese drivers of a public vehicle and a private car, respectively, for a similar offence.

Traffic-Inspector Alexander said that the occurrence was becoming rather bad lately. It was necessary to have the right hand side light on, though it was a common occurrence for a light to burn out.

For travelling at a speed of over 30 miles per hour, uphill along Island Road near the Dairy Farm, a lorry driver was fined $20. The driver of a motor van, belonging to San and Company was fined $20 for speeding in Queen's Road East.

"He would never get permission to drive up Elgin Street. It is too dangerous," remarked Inspector Alexander when a lorry driver was fined $15 for driving in Elgin Street from Hollywood Road to Staunton Street, without a permit.

On summonses accusing him of driving without an appropriate licence and passing a motor car on the left hand side in Den Voeux Road Central near the Bank of Canton building Mr. S. Kenny, of Hennessey Road, was fined $20.

Leung Chuk-chuen, for whom a representative appeared in Court, pleaded guilty to a summons for failing to have full control over his motor cycle combination in Upper Albert Road. It was stated that defendant's hands were off the handle bars. He explained to the Sergeant afterwards that he was trying to take a photograph out of his pocket. A fine of $10 was imposed.

SOLDIER GETS OFF LIGHTLY

PERMITTED TO GO BACK TO CANTON

Lenency was shown by Mr. Butters, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, to a man, who claimed to be member of the 19th Route Army when he was charged with smoking opium in a divan. He told his Worship that he was on leave, but had to be back in Canton to-night or else he would be shot as a deserter.

Revenue Officer Humphreys said defendant was one of six men who were found smoking in a divan during a Police raid last night. The divan was in charge of a small boy, aged 16.

His Worship passed sentence of 12 strokes on the boy, and fined five of the smokers $5 each.

His Worship—this soldier's case, has he got any money? R. O. Humphreys—No. He has only 40 cents on him, just enough for his train fare back to Canton.

His Worship—Will it be all right for him if he gets back to Canton?

R. O. Humphreys—So he says, your Worship.

His Worship—I'll caution him.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

HATEFUL TO ME AS THE GATES OF HADES IS HE WHO HIDES ONE THING IN HIS MIND AND SPEAKS ANOTHER.—Homer.

A stone-breaker was injured by a piece of rock while employed yesterday on the preparation of a site in Prince Edward Road.

A Chinese woman picked up unconscious in Pokfulam Road, near Sassoon Road yesterday, is thought to have fallen from an Aberdeen bus.

The wedding will shortly take place between Mr. Harry Samuel Chapman, of the Chinese Customs, residing at 47, Peking Road, and Mrs. Nina Llaneskyaya, of Harbin, who is en route to Hongkong.

Searching a passenger on the express train from Canton last night, Revenue Officers found 40 taels of raw opium in the false bottom of a Chinese suitcase. At the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, the man was fined $1,200 or six months' hard labour.

RENT RECEIPT ISSUE

WOMAN'S "TRICK" FAILS

Wong Yin made her second appearance before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with keeping a "sly" brothel in Jaffee Road.

Detective Sergeant Baker said he followed defendant up the stairs, and she hid behind a chimney stack. He entered the premises by virtue of a warrant. He found three Europeans and three girls there. The girls gave him their names and pointed out defendant as the principal tenant. Defendant said she did not hold the rent receipts.

A woman called as a witness for defendant, said defendant received money from the girls. She further stated that defendant asked her not to give any gully evidence against her promising her a reward of $50.

The defendant denied the charge, saying that she did not hold the rent receipts. She had held receipts on a previous occasion, and had been imprisoned for it.

Sergeant Baker pressed the charge, saying it was quite evident that defendant got another person to hold the rent receipts, while she carried on the business.

Mr. Schofield imposed a fine of $400, or, in default, six months' imprisonment.

KOWLOON TONG INCIDENT

WOMAN DRIVER SUMMONED

At the instance of Mr. G. Fowler, of the S.P.C.A., Mrs. K. T. Loke, of No. 68 Robinson Road, was summoned before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning for failing to signal while negotiating a bend at Kowloon Tong on April 9.

It was alleged that as she was turning her car from Suffolk Road into Waterloo Road, she failed to reply to Mr. Fowler's signal with the result that there was nearly a collision.

Giving evidence, Mr. Fowler said that at about 6.20 p.m. on April 9, he was driving his car along Waterloo Road with several members of his family when he saw defendant's car turning into Waterloo Road from Suffolk Road. He sounded his horn and proceeded, but to his surprise he found she did not heed his signal. She rounded the bend and he had to swerve violently in order to avoid a collision. He was driving at about 25 miles an hour while defendant was going at about 15.

Corroborative evidence was given by Ernest Fowler, a son of the complainant, who said he did not know what speed the cars were being driven at.

Mrs. Loke denied the allegation in the box, and stated that she sounded her horn, but apparently complainant did not hear her. Her husband was in the car at the time, but as he was having his University examinations he could not appear in Court.

The case was adjourned for a week for Mr. Loke to give evidence.

BRITONS ARRESTED IN GERMANY

Government Making Enquiries

London, Apr. 27. Asked in the House of Commons what steps are being taken in connexion with the arrest in Germany of Mr. W. Mann and an Indian named Tagori, the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, said that Mann was arrested during a police raid on a club in Berlin.

The British Ambassador had addressed an official note to the German Foreign Minister asking that a full investigation be made into the circumstances.

Regarding Tagori, it was reported that he was arrested near the Austro-Bavarian frontier and it was not certain that he was a British subject. Inquiries had been made from the Bavarian authorities and a report was on its way.—British Wireless.

MISS LYDIA MICHEL

DELIGHTFUL VOCAL CONCERT TO BIG AUDIENCE

The talented German mezzo-soprano, Miss Lydia Michel, gave a delightful vocal concert at the roof garden of the Hongkong Hotel last night, before a big audience. The programme was a most pleasing one, and the items were rapturously applauded. The concluding items, a series of German folk songs, must have particularly pleased the lady's fellow nationals, who were present in force.

Mr. Harry Ore at the piano was a sympathetic accompanist.

A new fast Dutch mail steamer is to be added to the service which runs from Batavia to Holland, via Singapore, Manilla and Southampton. The vessel is the 12,000-ton Slamet, which arrives at Singapore on June 19, at Manilla on July 8 and Southampton on July 18. Many local residents are making use of this service by changing homeward-bound ships at Singapore. The Slamet brings the fleet up to nine.

IMPORTANT GAMES FOR TO-MORROW

LINCOLNS AS BIG HURDLE FOR S. CHINA TO OVERCOME

ARTILLERY'S LAST ENCOUNTER

(By "Veritas")

With the four leading teams of the first division all engaged in matches to-morrow further elucidation of the championship and runners-up problems appear likely.

The most important clash is between South China and the Lincolns, as success for the soldiers would keep them still in the running for second place, and at the same time materially damage South China's prospects for the chief honours.

On the other hand neither the Royal Artillery, who meet St. Joseph's in their last match of the season, nor the Borderers who have the Recreio as opposition, can afford to drop points if their challenge for one of the two leading positions is to be of any value.

South China will probably be able to turn out their strongest eleven to meet the Lincolns, in which case they can be regarded as fairly certain winners. Nevertheless that energetic Lincoln forward line will require careful watching on the part of Lau Mau, Li Tin-ang, Wong Moo-shun and Leung Wing-chui.

LEUNG'S JOB.

Against the Athletic on Wednesday, Leung Wing-chui was sent across from the right to the left wing to shadow Cheung Min-wing, but in view of the danger which will threaten from the Riddle-Hocquard combination, he will most certainly remain in his rightful position at right half.

The Lincolns' great task will be to stop Fung King-chung and Co. from over-running the defence, and some improvement on the part of the halves will be necessary if this is to be accomplished.

Against the Navy too much work and responsibility was thrust on Ash and Turner and Heath. Quicker and more decisive tackling is required to hold up the fast moving Chinese quintette.

GOUGH TO PLAY.

The Royal Artillery are turning out their strongest possible side to meet St. Joseph's. As anticipated in the Telegraph on Monday, Gough, who has joined the Police Force, is being permitted to play in this last game for the Artillery, and their line-up will be: Comber, Allen and Wroe; Rodgers, Pardo, and Harris; Gough, Edmunds, Bryant, McDonald and Seal, with Walker as reserve.

The Saints have deteriorated to such an extent that it will be surprising if they can prevent this team from taking the points at stake.

The Borderers should be able to keep up with South China, and the Artillery, a win against the Recreio appears a foregone conclusion, even taking into consideration the marked improvement shown by the Portuguese since Christmas.

The remainder of the programme holds no interest, the matches in the second and third divisions on Saturday and Sunday having no effect on the championships.

FOOTBALL

MACKAY'S TEAM WINS TOURNEY

The final match of the St. Andrew's Club seven-a-side hockey tournament was decided on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon, when the Rest defeated N. A. E. Mackay's team by two goals to nil. Miss F. Wong and F. V. Wong netted for the winners. The final standings of the teams are as follows:—1. Mackay's team; 2. R. H. Wong's team; 3. A. E. P. Guest's team; 4. E. P. Fincher's team; 5. F. V. Wong's team; 6. E. H. P. White's team.

Although there are a few matches outstanding, it is probable they will not be played off, as the weather is getting too warm for hockey.

The Champions had the distinction of fielding a full seven in all their encounters.

Tam Kong-pak Before Committee

SEQUEL TO SOCCER INCIDENT

Tam Kong-pak, the South China inside right, appeared before the Football Association Management Committee yesterday for an enquiry into the incident which led to his being turned off the field in the Senior Shield final against the South Wales Borderers on Easter Saturday.

No decision, however, was reached, the referee failing to put in appearance, whilst intimation was also given that evidence of some of the spectators who saw the incident, would be required. Accordingly the proceedings were adjourned until Tuesday next.

OBJECT TO SUNDAY PLAY.

It was announced that the Club reserves had arranged to play off their Division 2 match with the Navy on Saturday.

The Kowloon v Chinese Athletic game, scheduled for Sunday on the Club ground has been postponed at the request of Kowloon, who intimated that they preferred not to participate in Sunday football.

Strong Fields Expected in Nearly All Events

DIANA BAY A NON STARTER IN MT. PARKER PLATE

Trentbridge Should Walk Away With the St. George's Plate

(By "Ringtail")

"THE HUNCHBACKS" PLATE.

Some of the moderate subscription griffins of this season will face the "Hunchbacks" Plate and those who have been looking forward to seeing Krata Viz racing in a short distance event should see the pony in action to-morrow. Charming Face which ran a couple of good races not very long ago stands winning chances and a change of jockey may do it good. Black Velvet, White Butterfly and Auction Bridge are good long shots, as any of them may get a place.

CHARTERS TOWERS HANDICAP.

In the Charters Towers Handicap for Australian ponies Lucy Glitters with only 160 lbs to manage strikes me as a good proposition particularly as this distance suits it well.

Canny will be taken out by A.J.P. Heard. Although it is a good looking animal I have little faith in it because of the presence of Friar Tuck (L. G. Frost). Lucy Glitters (Black) and Mermid which are all considered to have a winning chance.

SECOND KALGAN PLATE.

Punters who can pick the winner in the Second Kalgan Plate may reap the harvest of a handsome dividend, because most of the candidates here stand about equal chances. Some of them have improved since their last appearances. Among these which have shown some form before are Melody, No Fear, Vigilance, Darin, etc. I was told that Aden is a good galloper here, but if it wins there will be a substantial dividend. Cosack's Blood will be ridden by P. Young, who has a high opinion of his mount.

ST. GEORGE'S PLATE.

There will be only three starters in the St. George's Plate in which Trentbridge should walk away with the first prize. The most interesting part about this race will be the keen contest between Jungle Jim and Pooker Face fighting for the second place. In the absence of V.V. Needa who has gone to Shanghai, E.O. Butler will ride Jungle Jim which is certainly to do well with this change of jockeys.

SUB. GRIFFIN'S PLATE.

After reviewing the chances of the candidates in the Second Subscription Griffin's Plate I still stick to my former preference for Duplex. If this pony ever strikes any loss it will score its first win. Duplex is responsible for some fine track performances lately. With a change of rider it should come out well to-morrow. Darin may be reserved here instead of running in the shorter distance race. I rather think that Darin is a little purring in a short distance race. If anything happens to National Day or Duplex the pony should get a place. National Day which has one win and one place to its credit will be ridden again by B.A. Proulx and is sure to be strongly supported. Gay Buttery with A.J.P. Heard in the saddle is a real danger, while De Minimis will have a change of jockey running under P. Young.

Leo Frost.

Mr. L. Dunbar's Diana Bay which is considered such a certainty for the Mount Parker Handicap over five furlongs for to-morrow's Fifth Extra Meeting of the Jockey Club will not be starting.

It is a real pity, because the Grey is fighting fit at the moment and would have probably run away with this sprint event. Trentbridge which shares honours to carry top weight will be reserved for the St. George's Plate, which it should win in a canter. Bag and Baggie will carry top weight in the absence of Diana Bay and Trentbridge, and is good over this distance. The pony will be ridden by A.J.P. Heard and his winning chances are most obvious, because of this pony's most recently excellent showing in the Hongkong meetings.

Glencleaves which has been given one lb. more to carry than its stable mate, Cyclamen Bay will have E.O. Butler as its rider, while L. G. Frost will come out on Cyclamen Bay. The latter ran an excellent race lately in Happy Valley under Butler who was not carrying whip or spur on that occasion. The two Dynasty candidates, King's Bounty and Hietman will both spot colours. I fancy King's Bounty over this sprint affair, but because of its light weight both Hietman and Gay Crusader may prove profitable for an outsider's bet.

MOUNT DAVIS HANDICAP.

Dee will be carrying 168 lbs for the Mount Davis Handicap over one mile and 171 Yards and with A.J.P. Heard in the saddle Dee looks good. Tenorio with G. Harriman has been doing some good morning gallops lately and the long rest which has been given to Tenorio should do him good. So far C.A. Ingram, who rode Jack O'Lantern to victory in the last meeting.

Wayward Stag will be Ip Kiu-ying's mount and those who are looking for an outsider, who should put their money on this combination, which ran so close to the winner last meeting. Wildness which ran a good race in Macao lately will be amongst the starters, while L. G. Frost will be seen in the saddle on Tillicum. Incidentally Frost considers that his mount has a good chance here. California and Mignonne are both worth while following for a place bet.

BOWLS TO-MORROW

WATER POLO STARTS AT Y.M.C.A.

COMBINED NAVY WIN A VERY KEEN MATCH

"YOUNG MEN" DISORGANISED BY TEAM ALTERATIONS

The water polo season of 1933 has officially started at the European Y.M.C.A.

Yesterday the "Young Men" had their first match of the summer when they entertained the Combined Navy side, and were defeated 5-4, after leading 3-1 at half time.

The Navy turned out their strongest team possible and caught the Y.M.C.A. napping. Two changes were made in the "Y" side and this rather upset the team work. J. Henry could not turn out and Kerr made too late an appearance.

Outstanding in the Navy team were Hutton at centre-half and Laker at centre-forward. Both are County players at Home, and it is a pity that Laker is to be lost to Hongkong polo.

THE PLAYERS.

On the whole none of the Y.M.C.A. players acquitted themselves very creditably. Nicolls, deputising for Angus in goal, lacks experience more than anything else. Donn displayed the need of practice and Schreuder, although to the forefront was not allowed to be seen at his best owing to the disjointment of the team. Longe was about the most impressive of the home side, but he showed a tendency to hang on to the ball too long, a fault which he would be well advised to eliminate.

Campbell started off at centre-half, but finished up in the forward line where he showed to much better advantage.

E. W. Railton had to play at half speed owing to hip trouble, but he played his customary sound game. Schreuder (2) Campbell and Donn netted for the Y.M.C.A. and Laker (3) and McRae (2) replied for the Navy.

A return match is being played at the "Y" Bath on Monday next, when the home team will be at full strength and should be able to reverse the result.

The opening ceremony of the Chinese Athletic Association's new bathing pavilion at Quarry Bay will take place next Saturday at 2.30 p.m., the ceremony being performed by Mr. Chan Lim-pak.

FILIPINO TENNIS TEAM COMING

WILL BE HERE NEXT MONTH OR JUNE

Information has been received in Hongkong to the effect that the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation are definitely sending a tennis team on tour of the China coast, and that the players will visit Hongkong either during the last week in May or the first in June. It is understood they will be prepared to play in exhibition matches in Hongkong.

TO PRISON.STOLE FROM COMPATRIOT
IN RESTAURANT

Lau Tak, 48, a tailor of Mongkok district, appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon, charged with stealing a gold watch, gold chain and purse, containing $236, to the total value value of $236, the property of Wong Yin, manager of the Tung Fat shoe shop, 40, Lower Lascar Row, on April 21.

Appearing for the defence, Mr. C. Y. Kwan entered a plea of guilty.

Detective-Sergeant F. W. Fowle, prosecuting, said that the complainant with a friend went to the Tai Chung Kwok Restaurant, third floor, where they talked over a cup of tea for fifteen minutes. Previous to being seated at a central table, complainant hung his jacket at a hat-stand. While conversing with his friend, he looked and saw the defendant extracting the watch, chain and purse from the pocket. He shouted "Thief," and the defendant hastened to the entrance of the lift, but he was caught by the complainant before he could get there. Defendant was seen to drop the articles near the hat-stand.

A previous conviction for theft in 1913, and subsequent banishment for five years, was admitted by the defendant.

Mr. Kwan, addressing the Bench, said the defendant was first convicted shortly after his arrival here in 1913, on a charge of larceny by finding, and served six weeks. He was subsequently banished for five years, and at the expiration of that term, he immediately returned in 1919. Defendant had been in Hongkong ever since and had reformed, and on this occasion he was probably in financial trouble, and yielded to temptation. He had four dependents, an aged mother, a wife, a child of 11 years of age, and a sister-in-law, to support.

Sergeant Fowle remarked that defendant would be automatically banished at the expiration of the sentence.

Taking a lenient view, the Magistrate passed sentence of six weeks' hard labour.

When Work is a Burden.

You may not suspect partial constipation. But this is a frequent cause. Incomplete elimination of waste matter results in gradual accumulations which contaminate the blood, resulting in loss of mental and physical energy. Constipation either slight or severe, reduces vitality, interferes with digestion, causes flatulence, loss of appetite and resultant mal-nutrition. The constipated person cannot possibly feel fit and his work is proportionately more burdensome. Try a few doses of Pinkettes and note what a difference is immediately effected. Pinkettes gently as nature but with a pleasing thoroughness, cleanse the entire food tract and digestive system, put an end to contamination of the blood, restore you to happiness and energetic enjoyment of your work. The occasional dose keeps you fit. All chemists can supply you with Pinkettes, Liver and Laxative Perfection.

GERMAN YOUTHS
IN HONGKONG

THE WANDERVOGELS

Aiming to cement international friendship by intercourse with the youth of all nations, five young Germans, members of the Wandervogels, the oldest Youth movement in Germany, arrived in Hongkong on Wednesday aboard the s.s. Sandviken and are now staying with members of the local German community.

Rudolf Schaefer leads the party, all the members of which come from the Rhineland country around Cologne. Since they left Germany in May of last year, they have travelled through many parts of the continent, traversed America and then crossed the Pacific to Japan and China.

Everywhere they have been, meetings with Boy Scouts Associations, Y. M. C. A. branches and other Youth Movements have been arranged. The Wandervogels have visited schools and universities and have performed at broadcasting stations in Europe, America, Japan and Shanghai.

In an interview yesterday, Hubert Giffels, a member of the party, described the trip since the departure from Cologne last year.

A swift journey was made through Holland and France to England. At Southampton they embarked on a North German Lloyd liner, and after landing at New York, commenced an extensive tour of the United States, visiting Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

At White House they were entertained by President Hoover, and their programme from a Washington broadcasting station was relayed to Germany.

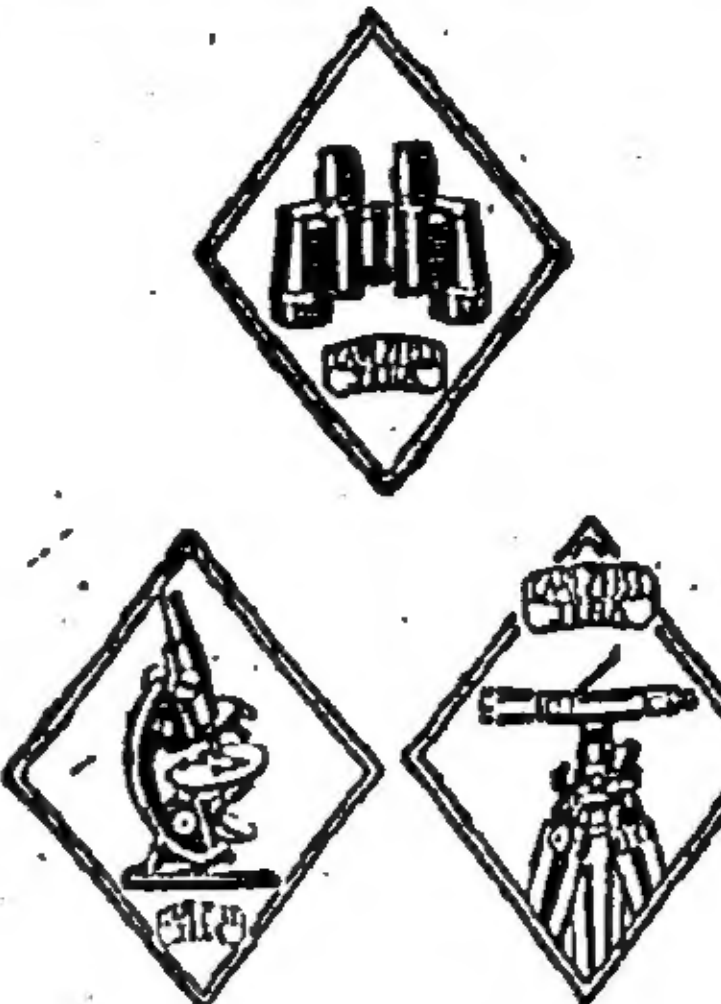

Accompanied by a contingent of Washington Boy Scouts, the Wandervogels visited the grave of America's Unknown Soldier and laid wreaths.

The trip was continued through Pittsburg, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee and Madison. A truck was then purchased and the travellers wandered about, viewing beauty spots and establishing connections with other Youth movements in the Middle West and West.

After a tour of California, they embarked on a ship bound for Japan. They visited Yokohama and Osaka, and crossing to Shanghai went north to Nanking. Returning to Shanghai, they boarded the Sandviken for Hongkong.

The Wandervogels expect to remain in Hongkong about a week, after which they will proceed either to Manila or Saigon before touring the Dutch East Indies. The itinerary has not yet been definitely fixed.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES.

Criticism has occasionally been levelled at the lack of distinction in the dresses worn in British films. There will be no reason to cavil in this regard at "Wedding Rehearsal", which has been described as one of the best-dressed films made in a British studio. The loveliest frocks for every hour of the day are worn in the picture, and no effort was spared to get exclusive designs from the leading fashion houses. Among the creations that will delight the heart of every woman who sees the production are twelve specially designed bridesmaid's ensembles, exquisite dresses, lovely evening frocks and perfectly fitting riding habits.

Some of the prettiest frocks are worn by Wendy Barrie and John Gielgud, who play the "Roxbury Twins". These are two of the four young actresses signed up on a long-term contract for London Film Productions by Alexander Korda, the producer. They are making their debut in "Wedding Rehearsal". Owing to the fact that they are "wins" for the purpose of the film, they dress alike in every respect and affect an identical style in hair-dressing and dress accessories. Some striking creations were specially designed for Lady Tree and Kate Cutler, who play important parts in the picture. Unusual attention was also paid to the dressing of the crowd artistes, resulting in an impeccable fashion background for this brilliant English production.

"Wedding Rehearsal" is released by Ideal Films Ltd. Make a point of seeing this most enjoyable of comedies.

"Wedding Rehearsal" is now showing at the King's Theatre.

Tallulah and Montgomery

Tallulah Bankhead, who shares co-starring honours with Robert Montgomery in "Faithless", Sunday's attraction at the Queen's Theatre is an interesting illustration of the difference between temperamental and temperamental in screen stars.

Miss Bankhead is high-strung, nervous and almost volcanic on the set, both before the camera and behind the lines. She is an example of highly charged temperament.

But temperamental she is not, according to Harry Beaumont who directed "Faithless". Beaumont says she is delightfully amenable to direction and tireless in her efforts. Adrien, who designs the gowns for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stars, marvelled at her willingness to go hungry noontime after noontime for fittings although she hates to bother about clothes.

Portraits, interviews, wardrobe fittings and endless rehearsals are things she has contented with besides the actual work of playing before the camera. Tallulah Bankhead, because she is so surcharged with spirit, is an absorbing study on the film set.

She cannot sit still a minute or relax. She has a habit of running to a mirror to comb her hair—not through necessity but nervousness.

"The Front Page"

The film rights to the outstanding Broadway play, "The Front Page", which comes to the King's Theatre on Sunday next were bought for a huge sum. The film was produced by one of the most colourful producers the industry has even had; the man who, in spite of his limited experience, has never had a failure, Howard Hughes.

The successful producer secured the outstanding director of the past year, Lewis Milestone, who made the picture uniquely so-called as "the picture of 1930". "All Quiet on the Western Front".

Though there is no star part in "The Front Page", Adolphe Menjou, star of many films was engaged in one of the principal roles; Pat O'Brien, this year's find from the stage, for another, while others include the comedy stars, Edward Everett Horton, and Slim Sumnerville; as well as Mary Brian, Walter Catlett, Matt Moore, and other brilliant players.

"Nagana"

Can true love come to a woman who has gone through life breaking many men's hearts, serene in her ability to love and to "forget" when she has tired of each new lover? History proves that to such a woman, sophisticated, wise and apparently heartless, the "great passion" brings an absolutely devastating experience and the tremendous depth of her feeling brings about a complete change in her entire outlook. Her steady exterior drops from her, and she becomes the abject slave of "her man", ready, if need be, to follow him to the ends of the earth.

Such a situation forms a part of the story of "Nagana", the thrilling Universal drama which opened to-day at the Central Theatre, with Tala Birell, exotic Viennese beauty, in the principal female role. Notorious for the multiplicity of her lovers, she finally falls genuinely in love with Melvyn Douglas in his role of Dr. Radnor, head of an organization engaged in fighting the ravages of jungle diseases in Africa, and follows him to a plague-infested native village, in spite of the fact that he has repudiated her advances. Braving the attacks of wild beasts, she finally arrives in Nagoro, and here begins a strange existence amid the savage tribes of the African interior. A fire brings about a veritable stampede of wild animals, and the picture reaches its climax in scenes of the wildest confusion. "Nagana" was directed by Ernst L. Frank.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Just because it is possible to make a slam on a hand does not necessarily mean that the slam should be bid. We often find a hand containing several winning finesses and a lot of good breaks with which a slam is made.

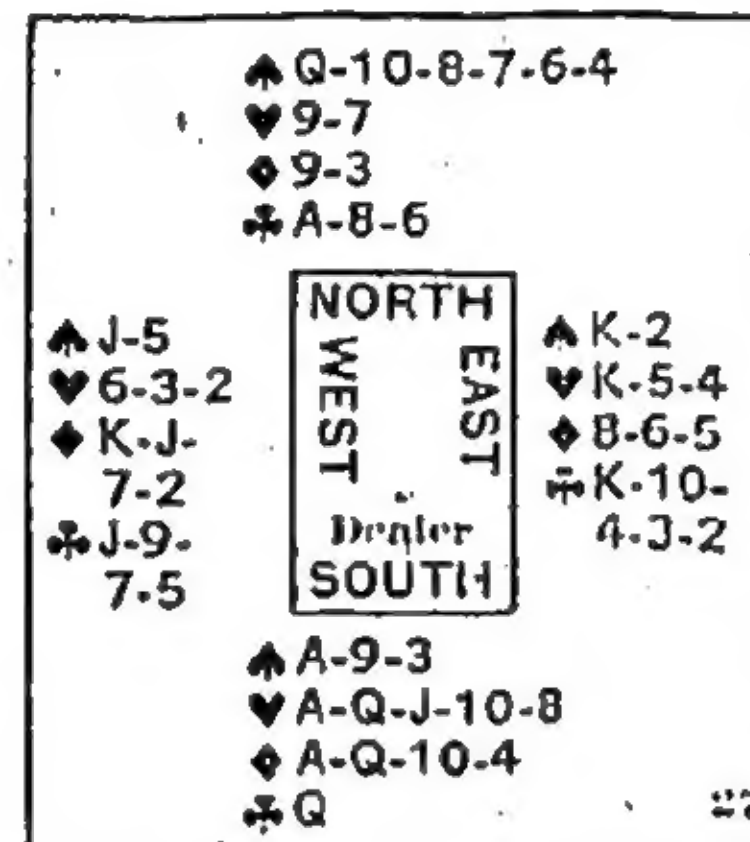

Take, for example, the following hand, which is selected from a tournament recently held in New York. Several players made the slam—some at spades, some at hearts, while one player was lucky enough to make a grand slam at no trump due to a spade opening. However, not one pair bid for a slam.

The Bidding

At the majority of tables South, bid one heart, West passed, and North made a one over one forcing bid of one spade.

South showed his second suit—diamonds. This makes the third constructive bid which now forces North to re-bid. While North had a one over one force, he has nothing but length in spades, therefore his proper response is a sign-off bid of two spades.

South is now in a peculiar position—if he jumps to four hearts,

North is very apt to pass the hand. He cannot re-bid the four card diamond suit.

One South player responded with three no trump and North, with the ace of the unbid suit, passed. West then made a bid opening of the jack of spades, so the declarer won six spade tricks, five heart tricks, the ace of clubs and the ace of diamonds for a grand slam.

At another table South responded with three clubs showing the third suit, thereby forcing North to bid again. However, North was not interested and again signed off by bidding three spades and South went to four spades.

However, top score on the board went to the pair who played the hand at four hearts and scored the 100 honours.

The Play

A club was opened and was won in dummy with the ace. The nine of hearts was then led, and when East refused to cover, the eight was played by declarer. Another small heart was led and the ten finessed. The ace picked up East's king.

Declarer next played his ace of spades and followed it with a small spade which East won with the king. When the diamond was returned, the declarer refused to take the finesse, but went right up with his ace. He led a small spade which he won in dummy with the ten, and then discarded his three diamonds on dummy's three good spades.

Remember that you will win a great deal more in a year's time by bidding for game and making a slam than you will by bidding doubtful slams which fail more than 50 per cent of the time.

BRITAIN'S AIR CHIEF DEAD

SIR GEOFFREY SALMOND PASSES AWAY

HELD POST ONLY A FEW DAYS

London, April 27.
Sir Geoffrey Salmond, Chief of the Air Staff, who has been seriously ill since the beginning of April, passed away to-day.

He had assumed his new post,
the highest ranking in the Royal Air Force, only a few days when he was taken ill and his brother,
Sir John Salmond, who had retired, suddenly was recalled to the Air Ministry.

The Air Council have announced that the funeral will take place on Monday.

Sir Geoffrey Salmond was born in August 1878, and was educated at Wellington College and the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich.
His father was Major-General Sir W.
Salmond.

BOXER REBELLION.
Joining the Royal Artillery in 1898, he served with that arm in the South African war, gaining seven clasps to his medal. He also participated in the suppression of the Boxer rebellion in China.

In 1911, he took a course at the Staff College and passed. At the outbreak of the world-war he was a captain on the General Staff, but within a year had reached the rank of Lieut. Colonel. He then joined the R.A.F. and, promoted Brigadier-General, was given the command of that force in the Middle East which he held with great distinction until 1921. In 1917 he

ANOTHER TRADE AGREEMENT

GERMANY TO BUY BRITISH COAL

London, Apr. 27.
Under an Anglo-German trade agreement published to-day, Germany has agreed to take a minimum of 180,000 tons of British coal per month in return for tariff concessions upon a number of articles comprising toys, musical instruments, clocks, jewellery, hollow ware, safety razor blades and chemicals.

The agreement becomes operative on May 8 of this year.—
Reuter.

received the D.S.O. in 1918 the
C.B. and in 1919 a knighthood
(K.C.M.G.) and promotion to Air
Vice-Marshal.

SYSTEMATIC RAIDS.
It was his systematic and persistent raids which served more than anything else to break up the Turkish armies. In a lull in the operations in December, 1918, he accomplished with Capt. Ross
Smith the first flight to India. Returning to England, Sir Geoffrey Salmond became, in 1922, the Director-General of Supply and Research at the Air Ministry and a member of the Air Council.

In 1926 he was created K.C.B. and a year later was given command of the R.A.F. in India, being promoted Air Marshal in 1929.

CHIEF OF AIR STAFF.
At home again in 1931, he was
Commander-in-Chief of the Air Defence of Britain until he was appointed in July, 1932, Chief of the Air Staff, succeeding his younger brother, Sir John Salmond, who had held the post for years and retired to give his brother an opportunity to attain the higher post. The appointment was effective from the beginning of the present month.—Reuter.

STAHLHELM DISAPPEARS

DR. SELDTE JOINS NAZI ORGANISATION

ALLEGIANCE TO HITLER

Berlin, Apr. 27.
Predictions that the Steel Helmet organisation would soon cease to exist as a separate entity in German politics have quickly been borne out.

The head of the Stahlhelm, Dr.
Franz Seldte, who is Minister of Labour in the Hitler Cabinet, has joined the Nazis taking the bulk of the Steel Helmets with him.

The announcement was made by Dr. Seldte in a wireless broadcast, in the course of which he said he was submitting himself and the Stahlhelm to Hitler's leadership.

Those who refused to follow him could regard themselves as released from the membership oath.

THOROUGH "PURGING".

The step, which has long been expected, was taken after a thorough "purging" of the Stahlhelm of the opposition elements, including Lieut. Colonel Duestenberg, who was dismissed yesterday, and Major Wagner, the Federal Chancellor of the organisation.

No official announcement has been made regarding the withdrawal of Herr Hugenberg and Baron von Neurath from the Hitler Cabinet.—Reuter.
